Secret Stash

By Dan Maher ~ Daily Bull

Mino's Pizza recently released a new product. This product is expected to double if not triple sales over the next quarter. The new product, you guessed it, free warm 'special' brownies. Obviously the special part of the brownies is a secret, but you can use some imagination here. Top execs came up with the idea after some recent experimentation at HQ.

This product is designed to increase the unsuspecting victims hunger by bringing on a severe case of the munchies. In a college town, such as Hoton (see city barricades), the results could be devastating. Luckily the local Mino's has hired a few dozen more employees to handle the increased demands. The plan however is not to

Can You Satisfy Your Girlfriend?

By Scott Nelson ~ Daily Bull

While looking through my incoming emails on Huskymail, I discovered this subject line glaring up at me from my screen, "Can satisfy your girlfriend?" Well, I began to ponder this question; can I actually satisfy my girlfriend? Of course, this email was referring to Viagra and Cialis, so I would be able to have "Wonderful Sex 24/7," which is wonderful from a physical perspective, but my girlfriend wants so much more than wonderful sex. When asked, most girls will say that they want someone who is sweet, caring, romantic, thoughtful, faithful and loving.

Now, why aren't they selling an amazing pill that will satisfy your girlfriend from her perspective not ours', changing emotions and actions instead of erection times and penis size; this is what I propose.

Wouldn't it be wonderful to have a pill that your girlfriend could slip into your beverage and suddenly you would be the most caring and thoughtful guy in the world. You would always think of her and you always know exactly what makes her feel better in her time of need. This pill would also make you sweet and romantic. You would give her roses and flowers; you would call to her from Lower Lot 17 à la Romeo and you would always make every meal in the dining halls special. Finally, this pill will somehow make you 100% faithful to one and only one girl. Armed with this pill, girls would be able to turn any guy in to your own personal Cyrano.

Now, this amazing boyfriend changing pill will probably work on the generic sex-obsessed college guy, but there are some of us here at Tech that are far from that stereotype. Some guys here rarely see the shower, let alone the light of day because they are in front of their computers all day long. So maybe a "Tech-School Supplement" would sufficiently drag our introverts out into the wonderful world of dating. This pill would have to increase skin pigmentation to allow the subject to travel into the sunlight and not look pasty. Another feature would have to somehow biologically get the subject ready to interact in social situations with his soon-to-be-girlfriend. With these features, any CS major or engineer could be ready for dating.

Now, that I have proposed a pill for girls to emotionally change guys, I have to wonder about the girls. Why don't girls have more pills to satisfy their boyfriends? Well, most guys want their girlfriend to have big firm boobs, long silky legs and the desire to have sex all the time. So, there should probably be a pill of that too. It would be easier for a girl to take a pill when she goes to sleep and to wake up in the morning 6 inches taller, with perfect figure and large firm breasts. It would certainly save tons of time and money when compared with the alternative of plastic surgery. This would certainly help attract some of the altered guys to any of the altered single girls here at Tech.

Now, this idea of mystical pills is insanely superficial. People changing themselves or their significant other solely for the purpose of tailor-making them to your needs where they are sexual, emotional or intellectual in nature. Let's try and get girlfriends and boyfriends who meet our initial criteria for what we would like in a significant other, instead of trying to rely on the pills that these emails tell me of.

*Editor's Note: My criteria: nice face, pretty eyes, <140 lbs, nice boobs and butt are preferable, must be able to cook and clean and enjoys the bedroom. ☺ pay these people with money, but brownies. This way the business will continue to make money off these new employees as well.

Owners are starting to fear break-ins over people wanting more after hours. To combat the fear of drunkards, hours have been extended into the wee hours of the morning. Another way the owners are making sure to get customers in the door is by installing a burlesque pole out in the carryout area. What tech student wouldn't come and see that? It is thought that the owner's wife may have some problems with this part, go figure, eh.

With all the extra sales at Mino's the plan is to put Little Scissors and Pizza Da Hut straight out of business. With all these new tactics in place it will only be a matter of time before Mino's puts the ultimate plan into action. Taking over the world. 'Fudge'n guy' is already out spreading the gospel and leaving a mess in the wake. 'Fudge'n guy has already left his mark at the local Mino's, so beware. 'Fudge'n guy' has been known to eat small children, midgets and vegetarians. A side note, watch out for the Kool-Aid guy at the local Mino's (if you go there you will get this). OH YEAH! ☺

Daily Bull Considered "Conflict of Interest"

By Andrew McInnes ~ Daily Bull

In a stunning turn of events, it seems that the official status of the Daily Bull within the vast bureaucratic wasteland of the inefficient (remember that 5 million dollars, anyone?) and sprawling behemoth known as Michigan Tech has been upped from "vague nuisance" to "conflict of interest." This reclassification came as a complete shock to Editor-in Chief Dave "Desiree" Klemens, as he had been otherwise busy lobbying to become Homecoming Queen (be sure to vote for him... ahh... her... by the way).

"It's, like, weird," said one member of the Bull, speaking on strict terms of anonymity.

Apparently, the controversy arose regarding a certain individual who is not and never was a writer for the Daily Bull, but who has strangely written an endearingly large number of funny little stories that we've published time and again. As we said, this person, whose name the Bull has been forbidden to utter in any way, shape, or form (since, after all, this person is not and never was associated in any way, shape, or form with the Daily Bull), has put his name on indeed a great many hastily written and sloppily edited stories, which we have for some reason or other felt necessary to print (this should in no way imply to you, the Reader, that this individual is or ever was associated with the Daily Bull in any way, shape, or form whatsoever). This delightful little contradiction has been lost upon the muscle-bound thugs that have strangely taken up to attending Daily Bull meetings, who have mostly been seen wearing the uniforms of the Ministry of Astronomy and Planetary Segregation Corrections Department, and the last person to have pointed out aforesaid logical contradiction has not been seen for some days now (we would like to take this opportunity to remind the Reader that the main function of the Ministry's Corrections Department has recently been to squelch vicious and scientifically unfounded rumors that the dwarf planetoid L-48871-beta is, in fact, the ninth planet in our solar system, alias 'Pluto.' Any persons caught perpetuating aforesaid rumor is to be immediately reported to Public Safety for mandatory processing and resocialisation). We have tried, not only to discover the whereabouts of this person, but to talk some sense into these muscle-bound thugs, but this turned out to be as dangerous as it was futile; Editor-in-Chief Klemens is still nursing a broken tailbone and hyper extended pinkies.

Why this person, whom we cannot and will not name, as they are not, nor ever have been part of the Daily Bull, has suddenly become such a hotly contested issue between ourselves and the mighty bureaucratic leviathan of MTU is distinctly beyond our powers of reasoning, especially since we realise and acknowledge that this person is not and never has been associated with us in any manner in person or print whatsoever.

However, we all must admit that this new level of notoriety is somewhat enjoyable, as it raises our stature to that of the MTU Competition Rifle Team, which, we would like to add, has shooting hours on Monday from 6-8 pm, Wednesdays from 8-11 pm, Fridays from 4-8 pm, and Saturdays from 12-5 pm (first timers shoot free; for more info email Zach at mtucr@mtu.edu). As we at the Daily Bull are hoping to continue to possess this new-found badge of honor, we hope that you, dear Reader, would like to join us in our new quest to become a justifiable Nuisance! Join us, or die! England PREVAILS!!!!!!!!!!!!1 ☺
