

INVINCIBLE BULL

The Daily Bull is probably not suitable for those under age 18 and should not be taken seriously... like perfect worlds!

Friday, December 1, 2007

"Where would life be without curiosity? There would be far too many cats."

~Brett Giles

Desire

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller
~ Daily Bull ~

We all have desire for a great many things, and I am no exception. Whether it's a desire for happiness, a desire for shiny things, a desire for shiny things, a desire to write a Daily Bull article about desire, or the desire not to be sucked into the black hole caused by the infinite loop of desire for desire. Employing the use of an annoying, run-on fragment, we now come to the part you've all been waiting for, a list of things we should all desire:

- The desire to have a pool full of Jell-O. If there's one thing I'd do if I were rich, I'd make a bunch of Mexicans cook me up a truck load of Jell-O and pour it in my pool, where I would jump off a diving board on my roof into the gooey mass. I'd of course then eat my way back to the top, avoiding inevitable suffocation.

...see Desire on back

The Wizards of MTU

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller ~ Daily Bull

It has recently come to my attention that there are some wizards on the loose here at MTU. Who are these wizards, and what do they want with innocent students, aside from our money? Here is a short list of possible suspects.

- Gary Agin.
- Bob Whipple.
- Any other old man who has long nasty gray hair and is probably made of rats and PURE EVIL!

So now that we've narrowed the list of annoying professors to ones who are both annoying and spell casters, it's time to go in depth as to their skill and influence in the art of witchcraft.

Agin truly is a top-level wizard here at Michigan Tech. Able to defeat any of his foes through "physics" and "logic," Agin has easily established himself as headmaster of the MTU Wizardry Club. We now go to Ben Vindedahl, one of the few survivors of a recent Physics 2

Lucky complete 7th Bull to myself.
Rolling in the glory, awww yeah.
(I think Nathan forgot how to count to 7).

magic extravaganza. "When I walked into the room, I could feel the magic floating through the air. That's when I saw Agin waving his arms around in a casting motion. I quickly realized he was charging his Sleep Charm, so I grabbed my counter spell (a can of Mt. Dew laced with fairy dust) and hoped that I was a high enough level to counteract his charms."

Fortunately for Ben and I, we were saved, but dozens of others fell victim to his initial assault. Later on though, few were lucky to survive.

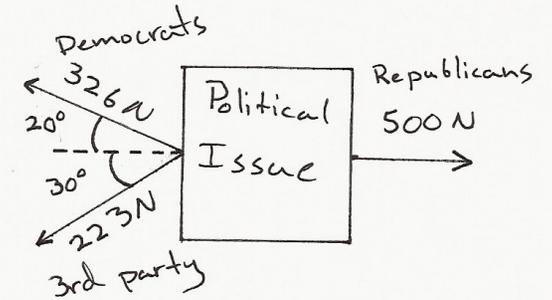

"Once the lecture was in full swing, he brought out his goblin helpers to aid him with one of his "physics" experiments. In reality, we knew this to be a Level 8 Heart Stopper Chant, and we were all in danger. Something had to be done, or we'd all perish."

...see Wizards on back

How To: Pass a Statics Exam

Physics Politics

How much net work is being done on the weightless frictionless Political Issue?

Brett Giles

It really works! Just ask Natalie Helms!

America's Favorite Pizza

(906) 482 - 0978

Student Deal

$2 off any Large Pizza

$1 off any Medium Pizza

Sunday - Thursday

11:00AM - 10:30 PM

Friday - Saturday

11:00AM - 11:00PM

OH LAWD! ARE THOSE SOME CHILDREN?!

...Wizards from front

"But we were too late. The experiment began, and the first wave of spells emanated from the device, sadly killing all the annoying kids in the front row who ask dumb questions; what a shame. Luckily for the rest of us, the "batteries" on the device died, but we knew this to be false. Agin's mana had simply dropped too low and he had to cut the spell off prematurely."

Another notable spell caster running amuck is Bob Whipple of the MEEM. He sits atop his lofty tower surveying the land, searching for potential victims with his eagle eye enhanced vision.

Once spotted, it's already too late. Whipple mounts his mighty dragon, swoops down, and lays waste to everything within a twenty-foot radius of the now devoured student. Riding his formidable steed, Whipple is able to shoot firebombs from his hands, throw vector lightning bolts, and fuse brains to walls without even blinking.

Glenn Mroz has been powerless to stop the recent wizard take over of campus, though he does, "hope that in due time they will pass away into the ever after once people stop believing in fairy tales." Optimism like this only perpetuates the control these demons hold on us, for without a proper anti-wizard stance we can never be rid of these foes.

Other possible wizards on campus include Cornilsen the Line Rider (Level 4) and Ice Sorcerer Mir Sadri, who was once known for his comical jester act until he was bitten by a snow monster while walking in "clear as mud" white-out conditions. ☹

...Desire from front

- The desire to dress up like David Bowie. Can you say tight pants? If that's not something to die for, I don't know what is. Oh wait, I've done this already. I just want to have a reason to do it again.

- Longing for a British accent. It'd be cool to be British, but it'd be even more awesome to have just their accent. That way you can keep your good teeth, making you even sexier now that you can pull off all the most hilarious British phrases.

- The desire to push over a cripple and steal their crutches. "Ha ha loser, now you can't walk!" Oh the fun would never end. Until you get shot.

- Yearning for the chance to go postal on anything at the push of a button. See my article on destroying campus for a prime example of this (What?! You didn't read it? Blasphemous!)

- Wanting to eat ice cream everyday if we were President. Hey, if I can do that in the food halls, does that make me President?

- The desire to hear the U2 song of the same name. Deee-saaaii-ai-ai-aiiirre!

- The desire just to sing out loud. Like in class or something. Hmmm... Sounds like something worth trying. Stay tuned to a Physics 2 lecture near you.

- Living on a mountain made of candy and sugar and everything else that can rot your teeth. It'd be so sweet (Ha! A pun!) and amazing that I'd never want to leave. Or are we already there? I only wish I could be there entirely.

- Punching a terrible professor in the teeth. We've all wanted to do this at some point, and if you haven't then you aren't taking any classes and probably don't even go here. What could be better than this? Locking up said professor in a cage and zapping them with a cattle prod.

- Crashing a tanker truck of food coloring into a city water supply.

- Stealing the British crown jewels using a well thought out plan of attack that would look really great in a movie. Except that you'd actually have the jewels, and you could hold them for ransom for ONE MILLION DOLLARS!!!

- Shave your head bald. It'd be sweet, and then you could wax it up and write on it with dry-erase markers. Plus you could pretend your Moby. Where's my razor?

And that's that. If you do any of these and get a great picture, send it our way and we might publish it if it's radical awesome. ☹

This ticket good for a lifetime of FAILURE.

Redeemable at Wal*Mart locations worldwide.

Daily Bull

EDITOR IN CHIEF
Tim Kotula
COMPOSITION EDITOR
Nick Nelson
ADVERTISING MANAGER
Mark Cruth
FACULTY ADVISOR
David Olson
COOLEST WRITER
John Earnest
BUSINESS MANAGER
Alyse Heikkinen

Mark Cruth, Sarah Cruth, John Earnest, Alyse Heikkinen, Mary Kennedy, David Kiemens, Tim Kotula, Elizabeth Masters, Nathan Miller, Simon Mused, Nick Nelson, Scott Nelson, John Pastore, Katherine Sheets, Heather Vingsness, and 75 oompa loompas about to devour your chocolates.

©2007 by the Daily Bull, a non-profit organization. All rights reserved. Articles may be freely distributed electronically or on late night talk shows provided credit is given, and that this notice is included. The Daily Bull reserves the right to refuse any advertisements or guest articles without reason. All opinionated letters sent to the editor (on paper or to bull@mtu.edu) will be treated as material to be published unless expressly stated otherwise by the sender. Original works printed in the Daily Bull remain the property of the creator, however the Daily Bull reserves the right to reprint any submissions in future issues unless specifically asked not to do so by the creator. If you keep reading this small text, Nathan will succumb to another terrifyingly delightful tickle assault. oH n0ez!1.

The Daily Bull would like to thank the Daily Bull for buying our own damn printer that this publication is printed on. We would also like to thank the Student Activity Fee for helping to pay for our paper and toner costs.

Advertising inquiries should be directed to bullads@mtu.edu.

Questions, comments & concerns should be directed to bull@mtu.edu.

