Living the Epic Life

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller
~ Daily Bull ~

Admit it, life is tough in the 21st century. War isn't cool, video games make us fat, and there are hardly any dragons to kill anymore. How are people supposed to live epic lives in a world like this?! Sure, you can have all the epic life you can handle with your Second Life or WoW character, but is that really the same? Of course not, and you know it, Mr. I-have-a-level-70-night-elf-blastotron-mage.

For the rest of us grounded firmly in reality, what is one to do to live the epic life? By following these simple tips, you may well be on your way to becoming a legendary hero yourself.

Visit somewhere awesome. More often than not, epic people live in epic places, and unfortunately for you your kitchen or living room is not one of them.

Dammit, Janet! Let's NOT Do The Time Warp Again

By Liz Fujita ~ Daily Bull

If you haven't seen the Rocky Horror Picture Show, put this down and go watch it. No, I'm serious! Appreciate the sheer mayhem; indulge in catchy tunes and vibrant sexual innuendo. Learn to jump to the left, then step to the riiiiight...and now that you've done that and probably feel oddly attached to cross-dressing Tim Curry, I'm going to ruin your fun.

MTV is remaking RHPS.

Just in case that didn't hit you hard enough: MTV is remaking the Rocky Horror Picture Show.

I don't know how this could have happened. MTV has a severe heroine-like addiction to debauchery, we know, but what does it propose to do to the Picture Show that the Picture Show hasn't already done to itself? Let's see... ooh, I've got it! They could feature a cross-dressing man. Even better, they could make him transsexual! Oh. No. Wait. That was in the original show.

I want my MTV [not to ruin great movies].

They could make it into a soft-science nightmare, with clichéd "IT'S ALIIIVE!" moments, improbable love triangles, and aliens who just want to go home. That would be cool, right? What? That was already in RHPS, too? Dang it!

Are you turned on yet?

That doesn't sound enough like MTV, I guess. Too much science, not enough bom chicka. Hmm. What if...a-ha! What if the mad scientist slept with his creation, then slept with both members of the lead couple, then the wife slept with the creation, and everyone somehow ended up cross-dressing in the end?! That happened, too. I'm telling you, dear readers, there is no way that this television remake can hope to have any success. They're even threatening to add new songs to their monstrosity. Honestly, how can it get any more deliciously risqué than "Sweet Transvestite" and was in the original show.

Gamers: The Masters of the Universe

By Ray Martens ~ Guest Writer

So I was sitting at my computer the other night, eating a bag of circus peanuts, when I realized something. Gamers are the master race of the world. I'm sure by now all the jocks are laughing and thinking I'm an absolute moron, but I'm serious. I'll even explain why for the guy who is reading this over your shoulder.

Think about it. How many people in the world can multitask to the level and intensity that a gamer does? How many people have that level of hand-eye coordination? Hell, how many people are that pasty that they can brb going to save the world afk

even glow in the dark (this might partially be from radiation emitted by the computer screen...)? That right there gets some mad points come time for Halloween. Back to my point. I've worked in several factories before, and each time I was given a tedious and extremely repetitive task. Not only was I able to keep up with the production rates they expected right away, but I was able to do so while also diagnosing nearby electronic issues my co-workers were experiencing and checking out the hot chick at

...This is an awesome movie from front "Touch-a Touch-a Touch Me," or any better to jive to than the "Time Warp?" RHPS is utterly ridiculous, and I'm going to be right at the front of the "Laugh in MTV's Face" crowd when they realize there's no way they can pull this off. Unless they make the physics in the last scene make sense. Then I might consider watching it. :) ☺

...Epicness from front Looks like you're going to have to travel to some far away lands such as Alaska, Timbuktu, Prussia, or Transylvania. There you will likely meet many interesting characters, encounter dangerous situations, make narrow escapes, and above all else, get into a fight.

Get into a fight. Just don't get killed, cause nobody remembers martyrs who weren't legendary first. While it's possible to fight just about anywhere, getting into a fight in a Yakuza hideout scores a hell of a lot more points in my book than getting into a fight in your neighbor's backyard. It also helps if you win against insurmountable odds, or at the very least use unconventional weapons during battle (but not knives in a gunfight).

Perform a daring rescue. Damsel in distress or your best bud about to be run over, throw caution to the wind and swoop in to the rescue. Not only will they appreciate it, a large crowd will probably appear while you save the day to congratulate you with a ticker-tape parade after a job well done. So don't mess up.

Have a cool wardrobe. Have you ever noticed that most of the coolest epic people have their own "brand" of clothes? Darth Vader had his mask and suit, Robin Hood wore tights, and King Leonidas and his crew popularized the leather Speedo. It's only logical that by wearing your own unique outfit, in time you, too, can become epic as well.

Live life through the eyes of a camera lens. From my own observations, if you live your life as if there is a camera crew recording you from the perfect angle, you are more likely to do even simple tasks epically. My personal favorites include the one where the camera spins one way while I spin the other way while I'm doing something like opening a jar of peanut butter, or the one where the camera shakes every time I take a step, as if I'm a velociraptor on the prowl.

Get a cool adjective. Lastly, it's often easiest to tack a neat adjective onto your name to solidify your epicness. Ivan the Terrible, Alexander the Great, and Sid the Kid all did it, so why not you? Hell, even I did it. Even if you don't have any qualities worth advertising, put one in there anyway. That way you'll be inspired to fill such big shoes, especially if you choose something like "Tim the Torturer" or "Assassin Sam." ☺

...Wanna play a game? from front the molding machine across the department.

Besides, think about what a gamer lacks... a tan? Who cares, no skin cancer for us. Personal Hygiene? This is a myth. I shower daily, it warms the muscles and eases the strain of the last 24 hours of hardcore mouse clicking. Women? They detract from valuable gaming time, and every gamer has long learned that his right hand (and/or his left if he's really good) can take care of those lonely nights. Unless she games too... Grades? What do you mean we lack grades? Gamers are the smart people who don't ever have to think about their homework... or maybe they just trained some helper monkey to do it for them in between hot pocket runs. ☺

McCain Spits Mad Ass Lyrics at Town Meeting

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller ~ Daily Bull

The 200 or so elderly attendees at a recent McCain town hall meeting were stunned when the Arizona senator broke out into a fast paced rap detailing his plan for where he would lead the country if elected president. Excerpts of the rap quickly hit the airwaves and YouTube, where it became a media sensation.

"Yo wassup, they call me McCain, runnin up for prez is the name of my game. I ain't afraid of that Barack whats-his-name, no dubleya Bush down on givin' me shame. See I'm no whistlestopper ridin' a train, I pimp around these lands flyin in planes! Yeah y'all are jealous of me and my fame but if you want to get dirty I'll lock ya in chains!" jammed McCain while circling around the news cameras and making as best of an impression of a hardcore rapper as a 72 year old man can muster.

"We'll stay in Iraq if I have my way, no punky ass bitch gonna change that today! You hear Obama, you hear what he'll say? That's no change I believe in so I'll blast him away! Knock him down to the bottom, that's where he'll stay, down with the gays, y'all right with that, K! Here I come, shit, let me rock wit it - pass me da mic I'm the Mav-er-ick!"

McCain finished his set to massive applause in front of a bumpin' audience, many who actually were able to stay awake. "I'm done for this show, but before y'all go you best remember my name - it's John McCain! So's as you pass through that door with mah encore, vote me for prez, numero forty-four! Word." ☺

Sup G, my playa, you wanna know my trade sercet? I write for da Bull, and I give em a holla. What 'sat? You rat! You don't yet? Y'all better STEP BACK! I'm runnin on down to my home slice in town, get 'im off da corner and send 'im to Walker. Yo, da Bull meets in there, y'all need not be scared. So's before I starts da fire from my burnin desire to kick all yo's ass, Wednesdays 9:15 is where it's at. Don't be a fool when you could be cool - you might wind up dead, I'm Mr. McCain and I approve of dis message!
