

DAILY BULL

The Daily Bull is probably not suitable for those under age 18 and should not be taken seriously... like the warm temperatures in November!

Religious Right Declares War on Gay People to Stop Global Warming

By Michael Senkow
~ Guest Writer ~

Along with the whole chaos of the elections, in which astoundingly the country decided not to go with the party that's been driving the economy into the ground (I mean Bush has been doing SUCH a good job,) a few other amendments to state constitutions were passed. Florida, Arizona, and California all passed laws making it so same-sex couples can't get married in these states. Now this surprised me until I realized the real reason.

Gay people having non-mogamous, unmarried sex stops global warming.

I mean it's the only reason I can think of. In recent years more and more countries have allowed same-sex mar-

The Woes of [Formerly] Expensive Gas

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller ~ Daily Bull

Gas prices. It's a practical given that at some point during your day you will hear some griping about them, and the Daily Bull is no exception. Except that my article about it isn't telling you to be all eco-friendly, efficient, drive less, or the usual banter. I'll leave that up to everybody else.

Often forgotten amongst the rest of the talk are all the great things that we're losing, all thanks to $4/gallon gas. If things don't shape up soon, we may lose these cherished American pastimes forever – and that'd be like letting the terrorists win. Do your part and help keep these fun times alive.

Road Kill Hunting. Hunting with guns is so overrated. Hunt the manly way: with your truck. Unfortunately, all the best trucks to hit deer and turkeys with are also the ones with the worst gas mileage. Aw, shucks Clemmit, looks like we's gonna hafta polish up our ol' bows 'n' arrers agin!

Surfin' Safari. Bummer, dude! With no gas in your tank, how are you supposed to go on Surfin' Safari from Hawaii to the shores of Peru? It's not like you can throw your boards on top of just any car – it's gotta be a woody of course. Otherwise you're not really groovin' to the style of summer.

With gas so cheap now I can drive my Bugatti again!

Bass Bumping Contests. Imagine the scene: two pimped-out cars pull up to a stop-light. One turns his tunes up, emanating obscenely loud bass that rattles shop windows and baby's cribs. The rival ups the ante. Up and away the decibels go, until everyone in a two block radius is deaf. No longer will these sorts of wasteful practices occur if these wannabe gangsters can't afford gas to fuel their enormous sub hauling Escalades.

Commuting. How are millions of Americans supposed to drive an hour to work and back every day when they don't make enough money to fill their car Where'd all the cold weather go? If we don't have a foot of snow by Thanksgiving, heads will roll.

And Now A Word From Our Sponsor...

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller ~ Daily Bull

No, I'm not sponsoring the Bull, I just think a lot of it up and put it all together. And negotiate advertising deals with good natured companies and organizations like this one:

WE'LL HELP MAKE YOUR NEXT EVENT A SUCCESS!

SLS?! They're totally cool! They make a whole pile of fun things around campus possible with their gigantic speakers and blinding lights. Where would be without them? Probably trying to play Rhapsody techno music through a megaphone. Don't ever try that at home: give SLS a call instead.

...Blood Suckers! from front up with? Telecommute? Yeah right. We've been shunning that technology ever since it became the "wave of the future" way back in the 60s. Why start now?

Sing Annoying Songs on School Buses. With many schools hunting for ways to lower their fuel costs, four school day weeks are becoming more and more common. That means this generation of children will be growing up with 20% less time to sing songs and get beat up by bullies on the bus. And it's not like you can sing "the wheels on the bus go round and round" in just any vehicle. It's gotta be yellow.

Shopping. Remember the good old days when you and a bunch of friends would drive all over town looking at all the newest fashions that you never had enough money to buy? Probably not, considering that the average reader of the Bull is a white male who is not interested in shopping. But if you did happen to enjoy going to the mall just to hang out, forget about it. Idling around the parking lot looking for a spot isn't getting any less painful with high gas prices.

Drive-bys. Last but not least, the gangster's modus operandi: the drive-by. Part of the brilliance of a drive-by is that once you spray everyone on the sidewalk with ridiculous amounts of bullets, you speed away before the survivors can retaliate. Unfortunately, with less gas in the tank, you'll be spluttering away, which does nothing for you and your vigilante brothers' survival. So by keeping the tank full, you'll be keeping your kill count high, thereby scaring away potential terrorists and assuring the U.S.A. a sweet sweet victory in The War on Terror (TWAT).

Note: I wrote this article when gas was prohibitively expensive and I feared the demise of these cherished traditions. With gas on the cheap now, there's no excuse not to drive your Hummer around, especially since it has been found that Gay marriage was causing Global Warming this whole time and not pollution and other fun stuff like that.

So get out there and keep doing what we Americans do best: drive around inefficient cars, whine about the economy, and continue to claim that we're #1! Go us! 🐻

...Gays & The Climate? from front riage. Finland, South Africa, I'm even fairly certain Cuba has something in line on the table. And what else has been happening? The world's temperature has been going up! Apparently someone on the Religious Right realized the correlation. If you look at these countries, well, Finland is very cold so they probably did it to warm up the country. And South Africa and Cuba are already hot so maybe there was some sort of reverse correlation with time going on here.

So its ok, I understand now. People aren't trying to be hateful or to stop loving couples from entering into a monogamous, stable relationship in which they can have a good household, raise and/or adopt kids, and help out the economy and the stability of the country as a whole.

They're just trying to stop global warming.

So thank you all ye Mormons in California who donated so much money to helping bring about Prop 8, which will only waste tons of money, throw lots of couples who are already been married into political turmoil, and remove the nice set of funds

Alright, who ate the steak? Schwarzenegger, I got my eye on you!

ANNIEKAPRES

that was coming into California from these new sets of marriages. I know you were only thinking about the polar bears up in the north.

(And if this makes no sense to you, look up some of the videos people trying to pass Prop 8 "prop hate" were showing, they're about as logical. And yes, I'm very accurate in blaming the Religious Right, if Jesus was alive today he'd probably be spitting on many different sectors of religion right now.) 🐻

Psst. Hey you. Yeah, you sitting right there in class or reading this online because you're cool and signed up for the email list. You want to know something? You should write for the Daily Bull. Why? Cause we think you've got what it takes, the power to write something entertaining. Can't write? Big deal. We'll fix you up real good and then you'll be a star. Stop by one of our meetings, every Wednesday @ 9:15 pm, somewhere in Walker. We'll be waiting.

This kid is probably pissed because the Daily Bull is running out of ink for its printer and this may be the last issue until we get more. How unfortunate. We will get more and hit the ground running, probably right before or right after Thanksgiving. Until then, TTFN, ta ta for now!

NEWS FLASH! Rogue Email List Discovered!

An email list of hilarious proportions was discovered last week that could potentially cause you to read the Daily Bull anywhere in the world.
