Columbine Shooters Out Killed Nearly 3 to 1

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller
~ Daily Bull ~

Originally intended to be printed the week immediately after the V-Tech killings, the Daily Bull used its good judgement and decided to wait a while. Apparently there is such a thing as "too soon."

Columbine killers Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold were out killed by the Virginia Tech killer Cho Seung-hui by almost a 3 to 1 margin this past Monday. The two are not pleased with being the third worst school massacre in U.S. history, and have vowed to return from the grave and inflict further harm upon innocent people.

"I'm totally pissed that that Asian killed more people than us," says Dylan on a hotline from Hell. "We were supposed to go down in a blaze of glory and be known throughout the ages for our brutality, and now this wannabe comes along

Grammar Nazis Put on Trial

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller ~ Daily Bull

Fourteen of the world's nitpickiest Grammar Nazis were put on trial this week, being accused of crimes against humanity ranging from abusing a grader's power to mercilessly interrupting speeches to point out grammatical errors. While students and Cali-girls everywhere rejoice, experts fear that the easy-to-understand world we've all come to take for granted will soon crumble.

A branch of Hitler's SS, the Grammar Nazis assisted the massive propaganda campaign needed to fuel the war. Ultimately, though, the Grammar Nazis moved on from merely proofreading posters and leaflets to controlling all of Europe, and later global, society. After WWII, the Grammar Nazis went into hiding in Argentina, where they continued to control everyday life until finally being caught last year.

"Up until they bagged 'em, I didn't even know the Grammar Nazis actually existed," says Ben Vindedahl, long-time Red Baron fanatic. "I guess part of their whole control scheme was to prevent people from finding out they were real. Makes me wonder what other mythical creatures might be doing the same."

While on trial in historic Nuremburg, the Grammar Nazi defense lawyers tried to explain that the Grammar Nazis were innocent on all charges based solely upon the fact that, "if they were so high and mighty, then why had they not cracked down upon chat speakers, phone texters, and LOLcats?" The prosecution countered by pointing out that these were relatively new technologies and the Grammar Nazis simply hadn't caught on to their tactics quick enough to enforce the rules.

Convinced, the jury sentenced the defendants to 800 years to life in moon

McCain Campaign Halted By Old Gum

By Nathan "Invincible" Miller ~ Daily Bull

The McCain campaign came to be our next leader." a screeching halt today when the aged Republican stepped in somebody's old gum.

"What in Hanoi are the youth these days thinking when they leave their gum around like this! I demand policy to address the misguided children of this nation before terrorists exploit our weakness on our sacred American soil!" McCain bellowed as he searched around for a penny to scrape his shoe off with. "Obama talks about change, but he doesn't get it. Can you trust a man who cannot even keep our streets clean from the menace of bubblegum to direct us in times of crisis? My opponent is woefully unprepared to

"It really is amazing how McCain reacts to even the simplest of challenges," explains a McCain staff member. "There is only one solution for all problems: wage war. Nothing else will make John McCain happier than to go to battle with evil and triumph after a long, drawn out campaign. Bubblegum better have its guns polished, cause it's in for a long fight."

The gum in question is believed to have fallen out of Vice Presidential candidate Sarah Palin's mouth when she found out her daughter was pregnant, and likely was mint or wintergreen flavored.

At the last Daily Bull meeting, we had 25 people show up, the most I've ever seen. Course, only one of them sent articles in: me, Nathan Invincible!

...I Can Has Jail Sentence? from front prison, explaining that the Grammar Nazi may also be able to influence their longevity with their powers.

"This, is a great victory for the free world. Everywhere!" proclaims professional raver Matt Smith. "Its like we're free and there isn't anybody filtering what we say or do I love it. Party clock-time! lets go now."

With no rhyme or reason to how people talk anymore many basic communications are now very complex tasks, "Hi I'd like number three and an one large please – said one Robbie Bezhler trying to order off a fast food restaurant menu." To his amazement they relinquished not his but different order, obviously.

"I was, like, so. Sad it made me hurt inside some." Complains Mr. Robbie. "Was resembling they did understand me not at all or something, you know? Now I have all wrong food with four burgers and a big pretzel I'm allergic to pretzels.

Even computer programs such as Microsoft Word have been affected since the Grammar nazis have been imprisoned in jail; losing their automatic grammar checking function that had saved many students to trouble of checking their paper's for errors themselves; resulting in even worse grades for much of students and others sometimes better. Elementary schools non longer teach grammar class because there is no use for it anymore... School boreds call it, a free for all.

Vindedahl says, "I remember a time when grammar and sentence structure was to watermelons as Chinese figure skaters are to NASDAQ. –Constructing now short word sentences is incomprehensible. What do to."

Despite pleases and cries of help from nations worldwide and globally in distress. the International Court Justice has yet to reversal its decision and the Grammar Nazis remain backwards of bars. Mankind may have met the demise in time for itself now, as economies industry livelihoods of people asunder around about.

"You shall all pay for incarcerating us!" shouts a voice above the rest of the nonsensical garble at jails' maximum securities. "Chaos and terror will befall the people of Earth! No one will survive, save for us Grammar Nazis! We will prevail!" ☹

...You shot me down from front and steals the spotlight! What a poser, doesn't he know there can only be one horrible school shooting per generation? Amateur..."

Cho killed 32 fellow students at Virginia Tech single handedly, while Eric and Dylan tag teamed to kill 13 at the Columbine High school 8 years ago. The two have been residing in Hell since they committed their heinous crimes.

"How is it possible that this newb managed to kill more than 30 people with a fricken glock and a 20 cal?" complains Eric. "We had big bad ass sawed-offed shot guns, pipe bombs, and a whole bunch of other crap. I bet he had auto aim on, that cheater."

"That or there was a second shooter on the grassy knoll," adds Dylan. "There's always another shooter on the grassy knoll."

Officials are still trying to determine he just posed and acted cool. Not cool."

Dylan and Eric are currently planning an encore tour to try and beat the record by Cho, after their disappointing initial results. Although they may have already sold their souls to the devil once, they are banking on being able to take out a loan on life and resurface to cause more mayhem.

"These are some of the most talented kids I've ever had the privilege of corrupting," claims Satan, ruler of the underworld. "I'm sure I could work something out. I mean, for all these kids have done for me, I just have to give them a chance to go out there and show their stuff. It's a win-win situation."

Cho, who now has his own mansion across the street from "Satan's Stars" such as Timothy McVeigh and Adolph Hitler, is confident that his record will stand for many years to come. He doesn't think it's fair that the Columbine killers get a second chance, but he had a few words of advice for them: "Better luck next time, suckers." ☹ what caused Cho to go postal at the school, though things are considerably easier since Cho sent NBC a convenient package with everything the law enforcement people need.

Inside was a video with him making death threats, photos of him posing with guns, an autographed picture of Osama bin Laden, and a mudkip doll. Also included in the package was 40 lbs of un-detonated C4 explosives and 618 sharpened nails.

"Dude, that was the lamest, least threatening video I've ever seen. You could tell he was reading off a script the whole time," explains Eric. "His feelings weren't coming from the heart like ours were. What a little baby, he has to write down what he's gonna say. I mean, gimme a break, he didn't even shoot anything;

So pretty much before you go out and start looking to lynch me, I'm not pro-Columbine or pro-V-tech-massacre or pro-everybody-go-out-and-shoot-your-schoolmates. I am, however, pro-let's-move-on-from-disaster. If we sit around groveling after every bad thing that happens to us then that's like letting the terrorists win. And nobody wants that, right? So by lynching me and hating on my article, you are in effect saying you don't believe we should move on and that we should submit to terrorists. Therefore you be supporting terrorism. Seriously.

Don't be a terrorist. Write for the Bull instead. We're completely open to counter-articles and slander against our members (or me at least), so let er rip. If we get some good stuff, we may even start a fan mail section. ~Invincible.
