PHASMOPHOBIC TRUCKER RUNS DOWN 12 TRICK-OR-TREATERS

By Nathan 'Invincible' Miller ~ Daily Bull ~

TWELVE TRICK-OR-TREATERS BETWEEN the ages of 6 and 10 were killed in an apparent hit-andrun by a phasmophobic truck driver, reports authorities. The children, none of whom stood a chance against the ten-ton behemoth, were participating in a 'ghoul parade' when they were flattened like pancakes on US-41.

"It's one thing to doze off at the wheel and knock off a couple college kids, but actually driving onto the sidewalk to squash some kindergarteners dressed up as ghosts? That's another story," claims Keweenaw Timber Holding supervisor Ken Vella, who was out with his son when he heard news of the driver's incident. "What really blows my mind is that it could've been any of us."

Tsunami Causes Mass Anime Shortage

An earthquake in Argentina over the weekend sent a massive tsunami across the ocean. hitting the entire coast of Japan. As many people know, Japan is the home of anime and manga. Unfortunately, the majority of anime and manga offices, servers, and printing centers were on the coast affected by the 30-metre tall wave.

The damage, many say, is irreversible. Data to almost all ancient anime, such as Lu-pin III, Robotech, Neon Genesis Evangelion, and Gunbuster were almost completely wiped out. This massive shortage has left many people to actually turn away from the classic use of currency, and in many circles use anime and manga as an alternative currency source.

Some lucky otaku have been heralding this as the day they've been waiting for. Though the conversion rates are varied since anime is bartered and not bought or sold, the rough equivalents are about 400 dollars for Big O, 1000 for Lupin III, and 200 for Gunbuster. Nobody seems to want to relive the nightmare of Neon figures all day, watching anime with the occasional hentai. However, due to the spark in trade, many otaku are fleeing their room in favor of this 'outside' they've always heard about and exchanging digital Genesis Evangelion, and in fact, many are rejoicing, having said their minds are no longer blown. It is said that true copies of Big O only exist in numbers less than 3000.

When asked about the situation, the Japanese prime minister only had this to say: "We are truly sorry for your lots." Nobody is truly certain what he means by sorry for our 'lots,' but one thing is sure:

> trade and social goings among otaku are at an all time high. Usually otaku are highly unsociable, staving in their rooms with their computers and their anime
