Sentences 2.0!

By Jon "Big-O" Mahan
~ Daily Bull ~

Remember a REALLY long time ago. Like REALLY long. Think back to k-day of this year. Yeah, that long. Remember those sentences you gave us? Remember the article I wrote using those sentences? And remember how there was supposed to be another? Well... Sunshine's a lazy sieve, and didn't feel like writing it. Finally, I managed to kick my own butt into gear, and do it. So, with out further ado, sentences!

Tranny housewives begin their day like many of us do. They start off thinking about how Steve Knudstrup is cooler than his cousin Megan, and quickly move on to more important topics to be thinking about like sug-arflipmuffincabbagepatch-dragonpoof. Of course this doesnt last long, as with everyone, they begin to think up some crazy mixed drink ideas. Snootchie Bootchies are a great idea for just such

The Blizzard of the Southern East Coast

By Sam Schall ~ Daily Bull

Over Christmas break, the southern parts of the east coast received what several locals were calling a blizzard. They saw about a whopping total of 2 inches at most in some places, and reach wind speeds of about 15 mph near the coast. For an area that was completely unprepared for snow, this blizzard hit them hard. Governors of several states were forced to call a state of emergency. they were even arresting people for driving, claiming it was 'reckless endangerment' for those people shoveling. I couldn't even see my neighbor about a half mile away through that snow though, so it must have been dangerous."

Meanwhile, in Houghton...

The snow caused all area schools to shut down for a couple of days to get together a big cleanup crew for the main cities to start functioning again. The smaller towns were forced to get together a team of shovels to move snow off the main roads before the snow plows were allowed on them to clean off the last millimeter

Even though the local college campuses were shut down for the break, several college kids who did stay on campus for the break were in shock. Several claimed an occasion, when drinking is called for, and everyone killed Mr. Sunshine because he creeped them out.

It is of course common knowledge to these housewives that AFROTC is better than Army ROTC. It's just a known fact. Like how Grant Cox kicks ass and you should all worship his sexy body. I mean, just think about it. Has anyone ever been as far as to want to do to look more like? I mean, often times my hair is too long, I can't find my shoes. How frustrating is that?

On a side note. Pokemon. Yes, pokemon can be used for about everything. You can even describe my sex life in pokemon moves: Sleep Powder, Harden, Pound, and String Shot. But enough of that tomfoolery. Back to the expose on tranny housewives.

One particular tranny housewife had an interesting day, by many standards. Started by pondering things like Ashley is Awesome, it is what it

WHERE CAN I FIND THIS "DAILY BULL?"

We have smokin' hot distribution racks just waiting for you to check them out. Give them a pat. Oogle their shiny firmness and perky publication-holding abilities. Places to find the elusive racks:

MUB food commons
MEEM elevators
DOW pillar near 641/642
Dillman lobby
Fisher Aftermath food court
M&M lobby near the west staircase

We also distribute in the Chem Sci lounge, USG office, and Walker. Walker, however, is having all of its guts ripped out, so distribution is temporarily by the Multiliteracies Center. We'll let you know when it's back - not that Humanities majors want to read us in the first place.

is, and the table saw safety rule #1 : If at some point you are not in contact with the board, it will come back and make contact with you, the day seemed fairly normal for the tranny.

Upon reaching the store, she overheard and argument which she only caught the end line. However, the line "For the Love of Donut Queefing Supersluts" was enough to rattle even the bravest of fried turtles. now thoroughly rattled, she continued to overhear more and more stange conversations. From the next aisle over "Sunshine's beard is the most epic thing ever. THIS IS SPARTA!" and "Hurry up the machine is stuck, I have struck a bonanza!"

As strange phrases entered her shattered mind, she lost touch with reality. She began to debate whether concrete is a better paving material than asphalt or not. And as she came around a corner, a large man in a white mask with an axe approached.

Now that's an ax murderer if I ever saw one! Still, this did not help our poor tranny, as she immediately began to flee.

She ran for her life. Over the river and through the woods, around the bend, and up the way. Still as she approached the end of her sprint, she hastily proclaimed "I need to pee!" Before going about her business.

This was a fatal error on her part. For the ax murderer was right behind her, chanting "Every day is Mrs. Fogal's birthday." A strange and bewildering chant if there ever was one. She tried to get the aide of a few students, as she ran by them, trying to escape the murderer, but alas, the student body was considered too stupid to handle potatoes, and thus of no use to her.

She fled into the woods, taking shelter where she could. But before long, the pink and purple dotted lions began to come out and haunt her.

never to have seen snow all their lives, so the big statewide shutdowns were a shock to their systems.

One student, though, home from a college campus high in northern Michigan was arrested during the snowstorm for the above mentioned 'reckless endangerment'. When questioned at the station, the student seemed confused.

"Why would the roads be shut down? I walk to class through snow storms 4 times as bad as this flurry. I've seen worse in snow October. Hell, I don't think they shut down campus in ten years for snow-weather reasons." That student was then taken in for psychiatric care; many locals and family member thinking the student was insane. It would never snow that

Fortunately, they mostly come out at night. Mostly. This was sadly of little use to our heroine, as the time passed seemingly endlessly. As she slept at night, she heard sounds from just a little away. Sounds like cow? moo cow? cow moo? moo moo cow? It wasn't long, for seven days passed, and still no grave. She'd lost her touch with sanity, and quickly called the first person she could, for help, specifically a mental hospital.

"You must stop the demons!" She called out on the phone.

hard anywhere and the locals had to be recklessly endangering everyone around them for working in that environment.

So, in the snow, they were hit by the worst snow they've seen in decades and it shut down several places. People were arrested for thinking there was worst snow then 2 inches in a day and trying to drive in this freak weather. Families were separated because of all the roads being shut down. Luckily, though, there were no accidents with this road shutdown.

In other news, the little town of Houghton MI is predicting a light snowfall of only about 2 feet in the area for today, so there will no school cancellations in the county.

"No John, you are the demons." And then John was a zombie.
