Penis Shock

By Jodhbir Singh ~ Daily Bull

I was very much prepared, before leaving India for the US, to face any kind of shock- culture, academic, or food, etc. However, there was one dangerous shock which no one told me to get prepared for. So, after encouragement from friends, I walked into the swimming pool for the first time ever in my life. They told me that I could swim like any other professional swimmer but to make sure I have a lifejacket on. So, we put our bags in the lockers, and changed clothes.

I had to put my glasses in the locker, thus I couldn't see things very clearly. We walked towards the shower area. As we were approaching there, I saw a guy, strong built, and athletic physique, taking a shower but NAKED. Yes, this was the first time I ever encountered a Penis-Shock or P-shock. My friends (not naked), who had been regular swimmers, were casual about it as if it

Harry Potter Comes to Houghton!

By Olivia Zajac ~ Daily Bull

Extensive reporting has turned up that Harry Potter is going to enroll at Michigan Tech as an undergrad in the fall of 2011. Rumors had been heard that after a nasty incident with a Chimaera, he has decided to take a break from it all and enter the magical world that is engineering. When The Bull questioned the admin office, the only response was "Well, we currently have Mr. Potter with a declared double major in chemical and electrical engineering. We're not sure why, he apparently did poorly at his closest chemistry class at his previous school, and we're almost certain he just likes electricity because it coordinates with his scar."

If this doesnt attract the ladies, what will? I mean besides Edward Cullen and the mentally ill ladies.

Once this statement hit the internet and Facebook, students across campus quickly became divided. One interviewee, Cody Marino, was simply beside himself with joy, "I freaking LOVE Harry Potter!" was all he could manage before going on a long and endless stream of reasons why he loves Potter. On the other end of the spectrum are such people who are now whining and asking, "When is Edward going to come here? There's enough sun that he'll still sparkle and be all pretty!" They were quickly transported off campus and to a rehabilitation clinic for the mentally ill. Records have indicated that Cullen would not have the ... Phallus from front. was cool to be naked among others. But my eyes were wide open and my mouth agape in amazement.

I digested the whole situation and diverted my attention towards the shampoo. An old man walked in on the other side of the same shower pole where I was taking shower. I knew there was more to see on that day. It was obvious from his stuff, hanging heavy close to the ground, that he was a Vietnam veteran, who had fought the war 5 times.

However, the main point of this article is not to tell you an embarrassing story of mine but to show the differences in openness of different cultures. Back home in India, I am sure we are never going to take our pants off in front of each other, even in near the future of 2511.

Interestingly, while I was swimming (or trying not to drown) a thought came to my mind. If it is freaking open on this side of the changing room, then it should be open on the other side of it. After all, Michigan Tech is an equal opportunity provider university. However, I have yet to see my first V- shock and B-shock – for which I feel I am quite prepared now.

Potter will be living at an undisclosed location off campus, and will be keeping his beloved broomstick under lock and key. One could only imagine how epic of a broomball stick that Firebolt would become. He will be allowed to use his magical abilities after 5pm on campus and off campus. The hockey team is already setting up a petition to get him to enchant their net to not allow any goals in, so they have a chance at a decent season for next year. He is also being asked by every male on campus to stay enrolled as long as he can, since he is thought to attract the ladies.

There was a short statement from Potter himself about why he has chosen Michigan Tech out of any school in the Muggle world: "Well, simply put, I've heard wonderful things about the school. Students seem to be happy and go on adventures every weekend in the snow, and sometimes they don't remember what it was they did! That is some strong magic at work to make large groups of students not remember what they themselves did, but can recall in great detail what their friends did. I'm assuming the University offers a class in this type of enchantments, and it surely seems that most of these stories circulate from the labs of the chemical engineering students, as well as their professors. And what could be more magical than trying to understand the magic that is behind electricity. It still baffles me that it was a Muggle who discovered such a source of power."

Needless to say, Potter, who was Muggle-raised, has spent too much time in his wizarding world, and is in for quite an awakening when he tries to understand the "magic" behind the black-outs. He has already signed a contract saying that he is not allowed his wand when he does go out to parties. "We just don't want to clean up the mess," the University responded.

So get ready Tech, for the most famous student that will grace these halls. Get ready to kill his liver and brain cells, and revel in the joy of Harry Potter. 🐉

The sign that greeted Harry on his first day of class.
