The Daily Bull is probably not suitable for those under age 18 and should not be taken seriously... like Boom de Yada

Anybody who wants the presidency so much that he'll spend two years organizing and campaigning for it is not to be trusted with the office.

What They're Fighting For In...

Brought to you by Nathan 'Invincible' Miller

Few people these days are oblivious to the unrest happening in North Africa and the Middle East. But what about the grim fights happening in the rest of the world? People are struggling for causes left and right, but only a few get coverage. Introducing Part 2 of my however-many-it-takes long series detailing these unknown struggles, "What They're Fighting For In..."

Iraq! Until a few weeks ago, Iraq held the world record for a country without a government, at 249 days. They held the record for a couple of months, until big bad Belgium came along and toppled Iraq's awesome record. Without anything to be proud of, Iraqis called a national strike demanding more incompetence at the top.

Said one protester, "Who ...see Injustice Forward

Latest Moral Scandal Hits Western USA

Brought to you by Liz Fujita

EAST DULLTON, IDAHO – The western United States has a lot of reputation as a pretty liberal region. In Vegas, you can blow all your money on strippers and gambling. You can go to Burning Man, eat drugs and make whatever strikes you as artistic. Some places support marrying as many people as you want. San Francisco is so vibrant that a peacock would feel faded, and Hollywood is a land where literally anything goes.

Because of the footloose and fancy-free nature of the west, residents of East Dullton (about 45 miles west of the capital, Blandville) have found themselves at the forefront of media attention. As it stands, the town is the exact opposite of western Manifest Destiny craziness. East Dullton is home to a large number of people who believe in wearing as many clothes as possible at all times, and the city was recently declared the country's first official prudist colony.

"We firmly believe that people who reveal skin are doing it all wrong," huffed one devout prudist from beneath a trench coat and balaclava. "They don't understand how comforting it is to be fully secure inside your clothes." Our subject, whose gender was never identified, likened East Dullton to an inversenudist colony; all members firmly adhere to a lifestyle of being secure, covered, and invulnerable to the natural elements. Trench coats, hats, gloves, and knee-high socks are common items, as are more unconventional garments such as nuns' habits and old-school bloomers.

The prudists have already butted heads (not literally) with western-region nudist colonies – "hippie enclaves," they call nudists. The two groups can be seen as rival gangs. A nudist representative, Treebark Mooncheeks, informed the Bull of her colony's concerns with the neighboring fully-clothed group. "They're probably going to die of heatstroke or lack of air supply to their bodies. Besides which, they will probably die out as a colony unless they can find a way to reproduce without taking off their clothes. Live and be freeeee...."

Ms. Mooncheeks became distracted by a passing breeze and was subsequently unavailable for comment.

Said aforementioned balaclava person: "We aren't worried about reproduction. As long as we continually recruit members to the colony, we will survive. Fornication isn't really an option when ...see 2Prude2bNude on back you're a prudist. Nothing can show, nothing can touch. East Dullton isn't abbreviated E.D. by coincidence, you know."

... Prude2bNude from front

Needless to say, some serious territorial weirdness is going to start taking place in the Idaho no-mans-land. Nudists are seeking to control trees and small, gentle streams, while the prudists have begun making claims to entire mountains "for their caves." The Daily Bull promises to keep readers informed of this emerging trend of conflict between nudists and prudists, as well as an eventual HBO special on a third, rapidly-reproducing enclave of Montana-based crudeists. 🐻

...Great Leap Forward from front

do those Belgians think they are, dilly dallying longer than us? We're Iraqis, we have had nothing but unrest for years. The one thing we thought we were good at was a lack of stability and political process, but no. This just goes to show that the First World is still oppressing developing nations like ours." The Belgian government refuses to comment until they come to exist later in 2013.

Fiji! Exports from this tiny island nation are few and far between. So when Americans figured out that it's cheaper and more environmentally friendly to drink water from their homes than it is to import it from the middle of the Pacific Ocean, tensions rose to a fever pitch Fijian frustrations spilled over onto the few streets the country has, igniting confrontations between riot police and laid-off water bottlers. Things took a turn for the worst when Al Gore called on the rioters to "show restraint or we'll drown your country with rising sea levels. Your choice." Fijians have vowed to continue their fight to the last drop... of blood!

Wisconsin! The Cheeseheads are at it again! With protests raging inside the capital building for the past few months, Packers fans are organizing their own revolts demanding their state's dignity back. "We just won the Super Bowl guys, can't we all just be happy for a change?" said QB Aaron Rodgers. "All your antics down in Madison are making me want to retire." To fight the political protesters, Packer fans are staging live-ins at the vacant homes of those residing in the capital.

Earth! Last week, the Supreme Court of the U.S. of A. recently ruled 8-1 in favor of allowing the Westboro Baptist Church to continue their horrendously obscene protests at funerals. "Freedom of speech shall be protected... even if it inflicts great pain," said Justice Roberts. The rest of the world? "Kill em!"

Demonstrators came out of every nook and cranny of this great planet to support those who died with dignity and who should be buried with the honor they deserve. al-Qaeda, Chechen rebels, neo-Nazi scumbags, the College of Cardinals, 10 million schools worth of small children, the sick and infirm, fabulous porn stars, British ravers, astronauts in space, North Korea, tea partiers, coffee sippers, and every veteran of every war EVER all linked arms and swayed to the peaceful hymns broadcast forth by the combined magnificence of every orchestra on the planet.

"That every single person on Earth can join hands and sing 'We Are The World' and the Boom de Yada chant brings a tear to my eye," said Osama bin-Laden, wiping his face with a dusty headscarf. "I love the whole world, it's such a brilliant place... preferably without the Westboro Baptist Church. Send those infidels into the sun." 🐻

MONDAY MAD-LIB: Hamlet's Soliloquy

By Liz Fujita ~ Daily Bull

To _____ (verb), or not to _____ (same verb) --that is the question:
 Whether 'tis nobler in the _____ (body part) to suffer
 The _____ (plural noun) and _____ (plural noun2) of outrageous fortune
 Or to take arms against a _____ (quantity) of troubles
 And by opposing end them. To _____ (verb2), to sleep--
 No more--and by a sleep to say we end
 The _____ (unpleasant thing), and the _____ (number) natural shocks
 That flesh is heir to. 'Tis a _____ (noun)
 Devoutly to be _____ (-ed verb). To die, to sleep--
 To sleep--perchance to _____ (verb3): ay, there's the rub,
 For in that sleep of death what _____ (plural noun3) may come
 When we have _____ (-ed verb2) off this mortal _____ (noun2),
 Must give _____ (person) pause. There's the respect
 That makes calamity of so long _____ (noun3). 🐻
