Humor can be dissected as a frog can, but the thing dies in the process and the innards are discouraging to any but the pure scientific mind.

And the winner is... Donald Trump?

By Alec Hamer ~ Daily Bull

If you haven't heard, Donald Trump (aka The Donald aka Trump) may be looking to enter the presidential race here in 2012. You think I'm crazy or just making this up? Well if you've been paying attention at all to the 2012 presidential race you would know that this is all too real.

Who would he run for? Easy—the republicans. With no real front-runner as of now or an incumbent, it's quickly approaching crunch time and The Donald wants to run, self financed of course, for your vote. Who will be his running mate? Well, I have thought both long and hard about this and the only conclusion I can muster is his running mate will be chosen by popular vote, a la reality television.

Don't Trust W's in the US

By Jodhbir Singh ~ Daily Bull

Before leaving India for the US, a friend of mine who was already in the US gave me some tips so that I wouldn't get any big culture shock. One of the things he told me was not to trust three W's in the US. He said in a way as if he was telling me secrete that every new immigrant should know before arriving in the US. The three W's are work, weather, and women.

And the forecast for tomorrow says that we're all going to get BONED. Make sure to wear (weather) protection.

Work was easily understandable to me as soon as I arrived here. People were being laid off after 20-30 years of their service. Unemployment was rising. However, I was inundated with assignments and exams. You see the irony here. I too wanted a layoff from assignments.

I still remember that once BBC forecasted that the temperature in Delhi would go below 32F on some particular day. The next day, all the newspapers, TV news channels, internet blogs were full of impending natural calamity. Schools were closed and government offices were given warnings. You know, it was F#@ing KOLD. And here, you still say 'hi' at OF.

I had never seen snow in my life before, so the first month of November was like dream come true, and the next three were depression. Cloudy days and extreme cold made me believe that my jacket was my skin. I would start my day with weather.com and check it regularly because I didn't trust the weather outside. Sometimes even weather.com didn't know what it was going to be like; so they put

Defecating Dog Sparks Revolution in the Country of Shi'tar

By Jon 'Big-O' Mahan ~ Daily Bull

BREAKING NEWS- Earlier today in the small middle-eastern country of Shi'tar, a dog pooped on somebody's lawn. Normally this wouldn't be breaking news, but it was the dog of one leading party member, on another party's leading member's lawn (since the rich are the only ones who can afford to have grass lawns, and the such).

Immediately following the event, the two parties took up arms against one another in an attempt to gain control of the country. As many of you know, the Dipsh'its and the Shi'teds have been going at each other for nearly a generation, starting way back in 1982, when the Shi'teds took control of the government, though remained in close contention with the Dipsh'its. It seems that the inter-party tensions between the two of the parties has sparked with this final straw. The perpetrating dog seems to have since been lost, as the two parties went to war.

President Obama came out yesterday to declare that he sided with the Dipsh'its in the conflict, and would aide them as necessary. He called for the full mobilization of all possible US military air-forces to help contain and control the problems that were spreading from revolution.

However, both parties are already working together back in the United States. In a rare sign of unity, not seen since probably World War 2, the United States Congress has heard declarations from both political parties that they do not condone the president's use of force, albeit for seperate reasons.

Defecrats have rallied against their President for taking back his promises on war. "He told us that he would get us out of Iraq and only focus on Afghanistan. Now we're in more wars than we came in with! It's ridiculous," - said Head Upass (D-California) about the use of force in Shi'tar.

Repube-licans are already making the most of this for their campaign season. "The president of these United States has gone against the will of the people, and the will of the world, and has declared and acted military action against the sovereign state of Shi'tar. There is no reason for US intervention there,," said Rightly Misunderstood (R-Texas).

Many claim this is a war for oil, yet, since the US gets no oil from that region, many are already discrediting that statement. The outcome of this, as well as the intentions, will be seen in the future. In the meantime, the Daily Bull, your watchdog, will keep an eye out for you! More on this later. 🐾

We've had enough of this shit! We, the Dipsh'its will take this country by storm! To revolution!

50% chance of precipitation. It was summer when I finally changed my homepage from weather.com to google.com to see the other world.

you have so many to choose from.

I think I shouldn't say much about the last W because there are already few of them. I don't want to take any chance to lose any one of them because of this article. Right? However, there is one thing which I should tell you-don't trust them. I mean seriously. There is one girl I know who changes her facebook relationship status more often that her daily status update. I know I am exaggerating it, but you get the meaning. Before facebook, I was aware of only two relationship statuses- single and double. But now,

A friend of mine was upset one day because facebook doesn't allow her multiple relationship statuses. She had two boyfriends and both sent her request for 'in relationship.' You see what I am talking about. So, next time you encounter any of these three W's, be careful. 🐾 are voted off. Not much is known about one to shut up. But will this technique The Donald other than he has gone work for a president? bankrupt a few times and has one of the more memorable haircuts a celebrity can have. Upon being asked any question during a debate, Donald's only response would be a turn to his opponent followed by a swift "you're fired" using a whole hand-point to single out the person being fired.

Upon questioning, Trump said he favored "star" will be running for the republicans this technique when he wanted some- in 2012. 🐾
