News in Briefs: Accessory to Murder

Liz Fujita ~ Daily Bull

TUCSON, AZ – In a shocking turn of events this past Monday, two young women were arrested in the city of Tucson. The women, Sasha Rowe (19) and Mandy Murdock (22) are charged with the murder of an area man who was "like, completely ugly and stuff."

An eyewitness at the scene of the crime told the Daily Bull, "It was one of the most savage things I had ever seen. Jeff [the victim] was just mowing his lawn in his Spider-man pajama pants and a too-big Hawaiian t-shirt. He's been doing that since he moved to the block."

Rowe, an art student at Generic State Four Year College (GSFYC) explained from behind bars that she was sick and tired of her neighbors having no common 'fashion sense.' After boiling her

Have you ever wondered why we have names? One of the reasons is because we have nouns. In India, every person's name is a noun; each name has a mean-

Im completely sure that the word vagina has a completely sane, clean meaning in Hindi... too bad it's hilarious in English.

ing which, supposedly, identifies his/her personality behavior etc. Keep reading this article because at the end I am going to tell you the meaning of your name. My name 'Jodhbir' means a warrior in Hindi, even though I believe in Gandhi's non-violence. (n=1) My friend's name 'Sukhdeep' means light of happiness. I know, if you have figured out, his name does give a different but a distorted meaning in another language - English. If you haven't figured out, go to n=1. He had hard time pronouncing his name to others in the US in a way that it doesn't sound like an action verb.

It can happen to anyone, even to Dianne. I worked with her on campus. I always tried to pronounce her name with more emphasis on 'e', trying to stretch it so that it doesn't sound like Dianne. The problem was that her name had a meaning in Hindi. So, one day we were eating together with bunch of other workers, and somehow conversation turned to names. I told her that her name has a meaning in Hindi, but it was not something good that she would like to know. She pushed me to say it in front of others, so I told her that in India, her name would mean a 'hag.' But she was delighted that she didn't have any blood pressure for years over 'Spider-pants' mowing the lawn in his PJ's, she decided to put an end to it. On Monday, she followed him to his garage, locked him in his car, and prepared a weapon – of sorts.

Murdock happened to be walking by at the time, on her way to the Douglas J School of Hair and Stuff. Rowe called out to her; the curious Murdock approached the car. Ms. Rowe reportedly grabbed her friend's backpack before the two entered the car, constructing a specialized IED of hairspray, bobby pins, and nail polish remover. The bomb, police say, exploded inside of the man's car at 9:12 am. Ms. Murdock contributed only by swatting the victim with her plans to visit India. I hoped Sukhdeep and Dianne would digest their situations, but I wonder what would have happened if 1996 republican candidate Robert J. Dole had been America's president. When he was contesting the election, the whole Persian media was in big trouble because it was a serious issue for them. In Persian, dole means a penis.

Yes, it's funny.

They were figuring out ways to write his last name is different ways so that it doesn't sound like penis. But the big problem was that the Persian Daily Bull printed a front page story on voie and the story went viral. Ultimately, after an intense fight with the Penis (read Dole), Clinton won the elections.

But the question is: how would you find out if you are a dick in some sub-Saharan African country? Well, try simple tools such as Google translator, dictionary.com etc. Otherwise, ask any Chinese/Indian person sitting next to you if the last name 'Smoker' means something in his/her language.
