Entertainment Descends From Space

by the Interplanetary Representative A. Ackbar

Residents of the Houghton-Hancock area reported recently that rumors of an alien landing have been spreading since early last week. According to eyewitness Andrew Markiewicz, an alien troupe announced that they would be taking over town effective this Saturday.

The so-called 'Galactic Vacationer' will descend with his loyal ship, the fifth in his series of amazing vessels. The 'V' aka 'Nicotine Machine' has a massive hull, ready for carrying lots of abductees off to the mother planet. Said Markiewicz, "It's our understanding that they've come to take our greatest music appreciators away, hoping to form a new appreciation across the galaxy. Unfortunately, I don't think they realize people can't breathe in space."

Daily Liz and the End of the World

By Simon Mused ~ Daily Bull

An amazing phenomenon of an unquantifiable magnitude has occurred. We received a phone call from the future, warning us that if Liz Fujita were to publish a Daily Bull that would consist only of articles that she has written, then a series of events would transpire that would result in the end of civilization.

It all started at 12:05pm Wednesday March 23, 2011. The phone in the Bull Office rang with an ominous tone, bringing back haunting memories of banaphones. The voice on the other end, shaken and stuttering, warned us of the darkness that could be prevented if the proper action is taken immediately. The voice was occasionally muffled by the

If Liz Fujita were to receive her own "Daily Liz", then our extremely communist readers will fly into an uncontrollable rage. They will spread propaganda posters all over campus in an attempt to recruit for the planned resistance to usurp the Daily Bull and create the Daily Mother Bear.

Our freedom-loving, flag-waving, Red-White-and-Blue-Blooded readers will be offended that the communists would try and ruin this free expression of the First Amendment. They would call the Department of Homeland Security to help defend their rights by stripping it right from under them. With all form of self-expression abolished in the military coo of Michigan Tech, MSU will riot after someone dropped their sandwich and then the other Universities will riot because of what had happened.

Once the situation is completely out of control, all institutes of higher education would be shut down. Overnight, everyone will drop 60 IQ points and propose a bill to rename 'the United States of America' to 'Herpa Derp'. Russia would wonder what this nonsense is all about and after some investigation, realize that the earth must be cleansed of all Americans to prevent future dumb. Russia and China team up and fire all of their nukes at North America. America fires their nukes as retaliation at the last second, resulting in total nuclear war.

The Earth would become barren and only 200 humans will survive the chaos, composing of one telephone operator, one physicist, and 198 psychics specializing in bending the time-space continuum and making collect calls (those jerks). They make a last ditch effort to notify the past to never allow Liz Fujita, or anyone really, to ever have a Daily Bull composed of only their articles. We have been warned. 🌱

US Study Find That Things That Are Blue, Tend to be Blue.

By Jon 'Big O' Mahan ~ Daily Bull

In a mysterious phenomom of awareness. optics and science, US scientists and health experts have concluded that Countries of the world are currently seeking to issue out new vendors' licenses to companies wishing to change their names. "Many groups and companies have named themselves Also-red. Given that this is now called blue, we are allowing the company to simply refile their licenses and taxes as blue, and get on with it. Hopefully, we can return to life as normal, quickly," Barack Obama said in a press conference. 🌱

The formally also-red-man-group will now have to change their name to the Blueman group. Win?

This news comes as a revelation to scientists and doctors everywhere. "You see, I had been under the assumption that all the things that were blue were actually red. This is startling to me!" In a 17 year study of products, people, stuff, and things, the governmental panel has indeed confirmed the fears that things are in fact blue when they are blue.

"It's most puzzling. We've already filed reports and requests to study other things." Among their list of fraudulently wasted tax money is to study the effects of a hammer on a living human being's head, to see if guns can actually aim, fire and kill of their own accord, and to see if the color orange is its own color, or some bastardized blend of other colors... like red and yellow. (I know, crazy right?)

The repercussions of such a find hae yet to be studied by doctors. Some assume an entirely new market for things that are blue will arise, as they will no longer be mislabeled as 'also red.' Others beleive that the discovery will be but a footnote as the population moves towards greater color

After doing some further research into the 'Galactic Vacationer' and his crew, the Daily Bull found out some strange living habits. These people are apparently of the genus 'Coloreater,' meaning they need nothing more than vibrancy in order to survive. They devour delicious colors, deriving most of their energy from yellows. "While other species rely on the yellow sun," noted the biology department, "These apparently need only the yellow part." On the other hand, they're severely responsive to purple pigments.

"Eating too much purple causes them to get 'fuguefat,' and full" said researchers in the DOW. "That's a special kind of fat wherein the aliens are delightfully full to the point of relaxation and lethargy. They literally can do nothing but be contented."

The alien culture will not rest until it has captured a satisfactory number of music appreciators to take to their intergalactic music mission. The best recommendation we have is that as many people as possible comply without resistance and help save the rest of humanity. We may never again have an opportunity to venture deep into the corners of the galaxy with another race, after all.

Help make a scientific breakthrough. Gather at the Orpheum Theatre in Hancock (at Studio Pizza across from Finlandia) to see what Galactic Vacationer, V + The Nicotine Machine, Col-oreater, and Fuguefat have to offer. The invasion starts Saturday at 7:30. 🌱

Tech Students Vanish in Freak Monster Accident

By Liz Fujita ~ Daily Bull

A search-and-rescue team is being assembled following the disappearance of a group of six Tech students this past weekend. Reports indicate that the students were last seen trying to access their cars in a gravel parking lot. A strange combination of melting snow, rain, and the recently discovered "Houghton weather crazies" conspired to give birth to a massive mud monster, bigger even than the monstrous life-depleter they call Señor Design.

"I saw them, one by one, trying to cross the treacherous parking lot to their vehicles," noted eyewitness Jeremy Dobbs, a third-year physics major. "They would gingerly walk across the oozy ground, but then their feet would get stuck! Next thing you know, they're pulled into the deep."

Reports from the area are also beginning to indicate that the mud monster enjoys devouring cars. Among the victims were two Subarus, a slick Murano, a mini-van, and at least 17 for Tauruses. The police have warned people to stay away from this death trap, lest evil and chaos befall them, too. Stay tuned for more on this emerging crisis. 🌱
