

DAILY BULL

The Daily Bull is probably not suitable for those under age 18 and probably should not be taken seriously... like high heeled boots!

Tuesday, August 30, 2011

My wife and I were happy for twenty years. Then we met.
-Rodney Dangerfield

Canada's Fed Up

By Jeanine Chmielewski
~ Up-n-Coming Writer ~

Hostilities have broken out between Canada and the United States. The hot air coming up from the U.S. into Canada created the tension between the two countries. It seems that the Canadians have finally had enough of the weather known as 'summer.'

The Canadian government has demanded that the U.S stop sending the hot air north. The demand was made in late July after temperatures reached over 90 degree in Ontario for over a week. These temperatures caught the population completely by surprise.

"We didn't know what to do," said a panicked citizen. "There was humidity. It was horrible. My hair got so frizzy, and the temperatures where ridiculous. My dad actually shaved his beard off to stay cool. It was really weird."

The Canadians are not the only ones that are sick of the heat.
... see Hot Air on back

Senior Found Dead, Not from Boring Class

By Olivia Zajac ~ Daily Bull

The body of a senior student at Michigan Tech was found at the fairgrounds this past weekend. Many rumors as to his death have since been circulating. It is assumed that he died during the festivities of the annual Houghton County Fair, and there is the possibility of foul play.

The perpetrating camel was unavailable for comment. Eyewitnesses say that he climbed an area building in order to escape the murder scene. Experts are investigating whether this hybrid spider-camel is also a creation of the Brain Pathers' crazed team.

The prime suspect is his former roommate who is in the same major and was up for the same full time job after graduation. Upon questioning the suspect, he had this to say: "Yeah, we were both up for the same job, and even though he was way more qualified than I was and easier to talk to and much better at getting along with people and the favorite of the department and had prior experience in the field... I still deserve that job more than him 'cause I really want it! But I wouldn't kill him for it, either. He'd kick my ass. And I'm the one with the girlfriend anyways, so I really just feel sorry for the poor, single fool."

After the forensics team took over the crime scene and collected evidence, the old roommate was eliminated from the list of suspects and his cause of death was narrowed down to two possibilities. One involved corn starch, and the other involved wool socks. First, the corn starch. The clearly insane group of students who call themselves the "Brain Pathers"

... see Death by Science on back

Sudoku - numbers!

		2		5	9		1	7
						8
1		8		6			2
		4		7	5	3
			6		4
		5	2	8		7
	1			4		2		5
		6
9	5		3	1		6

STUDIO

PIZZA

PIZZAS PIZZA LOVERS LOVE!
Daily Specials at www.thestudiopizza.com
10% Discount for All Students
Downtown Hancock, across from Finlandia

Researchers have discovered pizza has the same effects on your brain as marijuana. They discovered something else too, but i can't remember what.

www.thestudiopizza.com

482-5100

Houghton: where the driver is more important than the direction!

DC Area Home Burns, Previous Owner Blamed by Current Owner.

By Jon 'Big-O' Mahan ~ Daily Bull

WASHINGTON D.C.- A Washington man has recently burned down his house in the city, and is blaming its previous owner.

The current owner of the house, a Bert Houdini O'Smith bought the house back in 2009. He's lived in the house ever since, going on trips here and there - however, after having a few hunger pangs last night, the man cooked himself a dinner on his gas stove.

The man approached his stove, turned it on, and then left to go tend to other things. The house subsequently went up in flames from the fire, and the man is attempting to sue the previous owner.

It is said the DC area man also had financial problems, and that arsony was likely.

"He never told me that the house was flammable. I mean, who puts a stove in a flammable house? Why would you do that? All I was trying to do was fix my hunger problems!"

Despite not being supported by a large number of persons, the man still attempts to blame damages on his house's previous owner. The media is reporting that the man has a case, despite every law expert finding him to be a total crackpot. Regardless, the Washington DC man intends to file.

The previous owner, Mr. John Walter Bugatti, says he has nothing to do with it. "Look, I left it off, in a good condition when I gave it to him. Bills were paid, stuff was getting done. I only wish I'd had longer to do more renovations to it. In any case, that white house is now his. Nothing around that. It's his and he put it on fire himself. Don't look at me."

Judges are in a pickle as to how they should handle the case. There are those who see eye to eye with O'Smith, and think that Bugatti is the problem, yet at the same time, there are many who believe that at some point, someone has to take responsibility for what they've done, and that it's far to late to blame Bugatti for O'Smith's issues. How this case holds up in court is yet to be seen, but promises to be exciting. 🐮

THIS IS PIMPCAT. PIMPCAT IS A MASTER WITH THE LADIES - HE HAS THE GIFT OF GROWL AND SWAG TO MAKE 'EM SWOON.

HE IS ALSO A BIG FAN OF THE DAILY BULL, WHICH HE OCCASIONALLY USES TO SPREAD THE WORD ABOUT HIS FINE LADY FRIENDS TO HUNDREDS OF READERS.

DAMN, THAT CAT'S SMART.

You can be just as smart as Pimpcat, you know. The Daily Bull prints five days a week, both on paper and online. Imagine the possibilities - that's hundreds of readers you could bring in to your armadillo farm, Cucumber Appreciation Club meeting, or one-night showing of the director's cut of Ben-Hur.

If you want to advertise with us, hit us up on our party line at bull@mtu.edu - we'll let you know the rates and get some smooth jazzy Bull action going for you, just like Pimpcat. Awww, yeah.

... Hot Air from front

Over the past two weeks, thousands of students have fled from the campus we call home in a desperate attempt to escape the heat and humidity. Due to this new development, the Canadian government has invited the northern states to join them against the U.S. This offer was quickly shot down in Congress by the southern states.

"Those northern states wouldn't let us leave 150 years ago, so they are not allowed to leave us now. Damned Yankees" explained an angry Virginian, along with several South Carolina congressmen. Diplomatic negotiations have begun in Toledo. "You can't blame us for this one. The fault is yours," said a Canadian diplomat. The tensions between the two countries, however, seems to be lessening as the temperatures begin to return to normal. Predictions have been made that as long as the temperatures continue to decrease at their current rate, hostilities will end in early to mid October with the projected first snowfall of the year. 🐮

Temperatures have become so extreme in Canada that even ducks and geese have ceased their regular migratory patterns, and in a declaration of National Emergency all curling matches for the next year have been cancelled.

... Death by Science from front were touting that believing in "the great lord Science" would allow you to walk on water and that so-called non-believers would "sink into the gooey abyss and DIE."

Chances are that our dead senior attempted to walk across this 'water' and became stuck; the group chanted in archaic tongues while he fell, face-first, into the trough and drowned. Investigations turned up that this cult-like group was actually having people run across a non-Newtonian fluid which is not, in fact, water at all, and should promptly stop claiming that people can walk across water.

Once the autopsy was performed, there were no traces of corn starch in his lungs, so the only cause of death was the wool socks. As to how the wool socks caused death?

"They didn't you twit. The wool you found wasn't from socks, it was from a camel. If you had paid any attention you would have noticed that his skull had been smashed and his grey matter was spattered all about his body. He was stepped on by an angry camel and instantly died," was the final, official report issued by the resident physician.

Moral of the story: don't piss off angry traveling zoo animals. They will eventually seek revenge. 🐮

Daily Bull

EDITOR IN CHIEF Liz "Riz" Fujita
ROCKET GRUNT Jon "Big O" Mahan
BREAD WINNER Stephen Whittaker
FACILITY ADVISOR David Full Metal Olsson
MONOPOLY GUY Alec Hamer
SCRIBE Ben Loucks

Liz Fujita, Simon Mused, Jon "Big-O" Mahan, Alec Hamer, Stephen Whittaker, Benjamin Loucks, Sam Schall, Mike Freisen, Bill Melcher, Kyle Roe, Cameron Long, Olivia Zajac, John Earnest, Nathan Invincible, Will Lytle, Bryne Judy, John Pastore, and all the lovely people. Every last one of them.

©2011 by the Daily Bull, a non-profit organization. All rights reserved. Articles may be freely distributed electronically or on late night talk shows provided credit is given, and that this notice is included. The Daily Bull reserves the right to refuse any advertisements or guest articles without reason. All opinionated letters sent to the editor (on paper or to bull@mtu.edu) will be treated as material to be published unless expressly stated otherwise by the sender. Original works printed in the Daily Bull remain the property of the creator; however, the Daily Bull reserves the right to reprint any submissions in future issues unless specifically asked not to do so by the creator. If you keep reading this small text, you'll drive at 170 mph down a highway.

The Daily Bull would like to thank the Daily Bull for buying our own damn printer that this publication is printed on. We would also like to thank the Student Activity Fee for helping to pay for our paper and toner costs.

Advertising inquiries, questions & comments should be directed to bull@mtu.edu