Freshmen Found Dead; Autopsy Shows They Stopped in the Yooper Loop for No Damn Reason

By Liz Fujita ~ Daily Bull

HOUGHTON -- Police reports have been flooding our office that at least eight Michigan Tech freshmen have been found dead near downtown, all within the last week and a half. The so-called "H1N-Loop" virus springs up every September according to the Centers for Disease Control, and this year is no exception.

On the eight occasions, the body of an incoming first year student was found on the Loop, rigid and still in a driving position within their vehicles. Forensic investigators explain that in most

If I Had a Penis

By Brolivia ~ Daily Bull

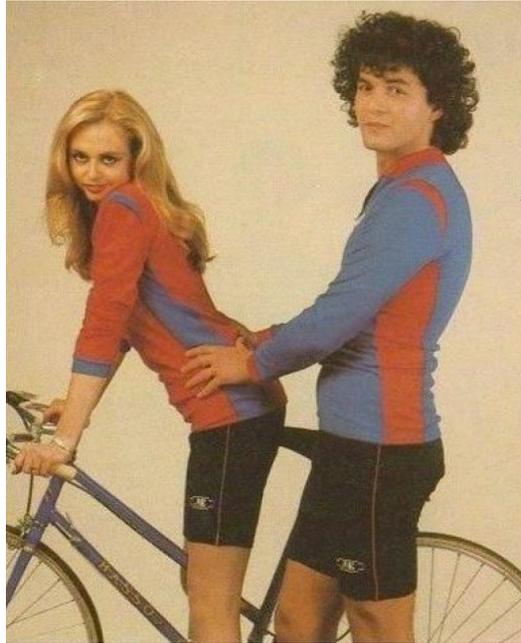

Okay, I may be the only girl to admit it, but I've wondered what it would be like if I had a penis. Not what it would be like if I were a full-fledged boy, but if I just had their odd dangly bits. I don't have penis envy, because quite honestly the whole male genital situation just looks...odd and it's quite laughable. But I've put some thought into what I would do if I had a penis for, say, a few days or so.

First things first, I would pee on all the inanimate objects that I could. Maybe this is just pent up jealousy from many a long hike or camping trip or seeing that untarnished snow, and the frustration of having to go power squat out behind a tree or bush and hope you don't accidentally pee your pants anyhow. I would whip that thing out and pee on all the trees and hydrants and random car tires and stop signs and write my name in the snow and probably pee on some people's shoes. I'd be like a dog marking my territory, and I'd probably cackle the whole damn time out of joy and freedom.

Now is where we get into the, uh, slightly more inappropriate stuff I'd do if I had a penis. I would find out if having sex without a condom is really THAT much better than with one. I mean, that's the big argument for not wanting to wear one, right? The scientist in me would want to test this via series of cases, other vehicles don't even collide with the cars of infected persons. "Most of the time, we reconstruct the surroundings as they were at time of death," noted Houghton investigator and avid NCIS fan Marshall DuPont. "There might be one or two other cars on the Loop, but never a vehicular collision. Everyone else just goes around them. These kids simply die because they've got that disease."

Symptoms of H1 N-Loop include confusion, fever, and dementia. Those afflicted are seized by the irrational, unshakable thought that they somehow need to slow their cars to a halt while changing lanes on the Yooper Loop. In addition, their motor functions are impaired in only the left arm, disabling them from reaching for a turn signal. The motor dysfunction and psychosis are so strong that they have no choice but to indulge their fever-demon, slow to a halt, then promptly die. Medical experts are not sure what causes the instant death, but most believe that there is simply no cure for their severe "stupiditis" (inflammation of the stupid).

No Michigan Tech student of sophomore standing or higher has ever suffered from the virus as far as CDC records show. Experts are working with teams of older students to help spread a vaccination to younger students in hopes of saving several more lives.

As of yet, there remains no way to stop the disease's spread to visitors from other parts of the country, who have the second-highest rates of H1 N-Loop in the nation. 🤪

Hey! You! Come check out the Daily Bull at K-Day! SEE HOW MUCH FUN WE HAVE? THIS COULD BE YOU! We'll even have candy! Who doesn't like candy? That's right - nobody doesn't like candy. Furthermore, our K-Day booth will be the only place to become a part of Bull History. That's right, we'll be holding a special event for YOU the reader to participate in. So yeah. We won't make you do TOO much shit for your candy. If you want a fix of your favorite five-times-weekly drug, come see us! Or don't. Or do. Mostly, do, please.

rigorous experiments. The more data, the better, right? Then I'd know what it'd be like to ejaculate, too. And if she gets knocked up, I can totally deny it was me because 1) I'm a girl too and 2) I'd only have this dick for a week. Win win, bitches.

I would openly scratch myself in public with no shame and make sure everyone around was aware I was itching myself because apparently it's acceptable for guys to do that. Stupid double standard. Along with that I'd make sure to experience an awkward mid-class boner because, well, I won't lie, I'm curious as to just how awkward they actually are. My imagination can only take me so far.

I'd probably run around naked for awhile, and just kind of let it flop around and stuff. I mean, sure, boobs move, but they don't have the crazy range of motion that a penis seems to have. If only it was prehensile, that movement would be nearly unlimited, when in the flaccid state. Just flopping all over everything, just because.

Last but not least, I would spend a lot of time playing with it. It seems like lots of those with a penis spend an indecent amount of time watching porn and jacking off. I wanna see if doing this is as awesome as guys make it seem, and if it's worth dedicating so much time to. Because what else are you supposed to do with a dick? 🤪
