Single Female at Tech: An Experience

by Olivia Zajac ~ Daily Bull

I've been at this school for awhile now (aka FOREVER OH GOD JUST LET ME GRADUATE), and have been single more than I've been in some sort of relationship. Let me tell you, this has got to be the worst school ever to be a single girl. I'll even be so glad as to tell you why. Let's take visiting friends at another school, or even just back home. Your friends/family/non-Tech people will always, always, ALWAYS ask, "Oh, so you have a boyfriend? No? Why not? Why can't you find anyone? There are like a billion guys up there!" What. Where did this come from? The Ratio, that's where!

Tech has The Ratio. "Omg The Ratio is totally in your favor!" Fuck you no it's not. Now, I don't mean to offend anyone, but, y'know. Shit happens. Let's break down The Ratio.

Top 10 Reasons Houghton > Big Cities

by Jeremy "Mr. Sunshine" Loucks ~ Daily Bull

Many of us here at Michigan Tech feel an affinity for Houghton. Things are just... easier here than in most places. They're especially better than in large cities, such as Chicago or Detroit, for various reasons. With no apologies to you folks that happen to be from big cities, here's a Letterman-style 10 reasons that Houghton is better than a big city.

1) All roads are plowed, even in the worst snowstorms. Larger cities like Chicago run out of funds and time to plow every single road, and it shows with accidents, gridlock, and roads so salty you could pickle eggs in the runoff.

2) Speaking of traffic, the lack thereof is amazing. Houghton "gridlock" is at 5pm, or whenever they raise the bridge. And crossing the street requires more thought to

What is it now? Like 3 dudes to every one girl? Now. Let's take out all the socially inept people that don't know how to talk to other people, let alone a person with a vagina. Now it's probably about 2 to 1, with some really generous rounding.

After knocking out the social wierdos, let's get rid of all the guys that are already in relationships (probably back home). Now it's probably about 1 to 1. Now once you get rid of the gay population of Tech (we totally have one, and they're freaking awesome) it's now about 1 guy to every 2 girls. Yeah. Those odds are really fucking awesome. Throw in the guys who 'forget' to shower and you have yourself a real shoddy chance of finding someone. Sorry, I'm not gonna take the time to see your winning personality if I can't breathe in your presence.

Past this comes the ever-feared "Friend Zone" that guys bitch about a lot. Seriously? Here's how you fix it: fucking say something very concrete about how you feel about a girl. BOOM. Problem fucking solved. Either she'll return the feelings and ya'll can frolic in the snow of pure happiness, or, she'll say she just wants to be friends, and that's that. But don't you try and blame that shit on us. Just because we're single doesn't mean we want any and all dick that is also single. Don't work like that, asshats.

Just make sure you don't make awkward comments hinting towards a relationship or sex for years and expect something to magically happen. Nor should you drunk text them about the inappropriate things you want to do to them. Not the way to charm the pants off a girl. And if you were only friends with a girl for the off-chance you might get to stick your dick in one of her orifices, well...I think that speaks for itself.

The absolute worst part, worse than friends essentially blaming you for not having a significant other is the power couples that look on you with pity for being fucking alone. And then try to set you up to improve your life so you don't have to be so sad and lonely, because "We only want you to be as happy as we are! giggle." Yeah, well, fuck you too. Rant over. ☺ not fall than it does to watch for traffic. there are still expensive places like the Library, or the Quincy House.

3) Very little litter! I was just in Chicago, and it felt more like a dump than a city. Houghton has magical litter leprechauns or something.

4) Fewer witnesses to see you hiding all the bodies in that vacant lot up by the credit union...

5) That guy you see on the side of the road, at a stoplight? He's not a transient, begging for money. He's drunk, and has no idea where he is. Or possibly who he is.

6) Small towns offer less neck trauma from staring upwards at ridiculously tall buildings. And fewer pigeons pooping on your head.

7) Most major food options, less cost! We have almost every major food franchise in the Midwest (sorry Wendy's and BK). And for the pretentious,

So there you have it, 10 glorious reasons that Houghton is better than a big city.
