Awkward Criminal On the Loose

by Olivia Zajac ~ Daily Bull

Stress runs high amongst students before Spring Break begins. It happens every year. However, there seems to be one student who has taken it a step beyond stress eating and/or drinking. He has decided that he needs to awkwardly talk to everyone on campus and leave notes of what he considers encouragement on chalkboards and whiteboards in every building. This mysterious and clearly insane individual has not been identified. But most of campus has taken to calling him Facob Jorbes the Awkward. According to one chemical engineering senior, Zach, the perpetrator is likely drunk. "I mean, that's what he always said his drunk name was. The last time I was in the labs he kept offering me free French fries from his backpack. It was kinda weird, but it explained why the labs always smell of old McDonald's."

Walker has recruited as many of their talented students as possible to quickly build a fake Walker 100 yards in front of the real Walker to prevent Facob from bothering them. "We have a lot of large, empty boards and walls in here, and the last time one of the staff saw him, he had giant sidewalk chalk in hand and had written odd things on the boards. One said 'Shhh, you had me at hello. I know it was meant for the person next to me, but it worked nonetheless!' These students are delicate flowers that can't be exposed to this. We're hoping that the decoy will work and he'll leave us alone."

The university is making no moves to stop Facob from

Not About the HIV News

by Jeanine Chmielewski ~ Daily Bull

It is a medical miracle, not just that a baby has been cured of HIV. Because let's face it that isn't all that impressive in this day and age. Most people are surprised that it took this long in the first place. What I am talking about is that we have cured people of stupidity. Yes that is right. It has been done! One person who had the WORST common sense on the planet has been fixed.

Breton Kajeet, 24, has made some of the most common bad mistakes in history. The drinking 21 shots on his 21st birthday, then trying to drive, jaywalking in front of oncoming traffic, making jokes about terrorism in front of the airport security, drunk texting his boss, and posting naked pictures to Facebook to name a few. After undergoing a rigorous medical procedure that lasted a full 3 months. He has been out of the intensive care facility now for 5 days and is showing great signs of improvement.

The procedure included a brain transplant from an animal that was widely hailed to be much more clever than him, a Chimpanzee. "He doesn't do anything stupid anymore but he is developing some weird personality traits," claimed his mother Laura "He now likes over-ripe fruit and flinging poo at runners on the street." Medical professionals assure the family that these traits will last for the rest of his life. He is changing careers to a termite exterminator, with a stick and all signs point to that he will live a relatively normal, if banana filled life.

No Chimpanzees were harmed in the making of this article. 🐒 harassing the student body under the guise of freedom of speech. "Realistically, he isn't hurting anyone. In fact, he's just making students get their work done that much quicker, because they don't want to run into him." As is no surprise, Jorbes has a few admirers. One first year student said she thought of him as a baby's first steps; cute, exciting, but still kind of awkward. "He walked up to me when I was in the library studying for an exam I have on Thursday, and he just sat at the table with me, staring until I looked up. He smiled, handed me a box full of old chicken nuggets and said that he wanted to walk away with me because running sucks, and that I looked hungry and that the chicken nuggets had been in the trunk of his car for months but that shit isn't real food, but it'll tide you over until I bring you more. It was the sweetest thing anyone has ever done for me."

Many of the older students just ignore this awkwardly social creature. "I mean, I have a 40 page report due in 7 hours. If my professor is trying to test my dedication to his class, he's gonna find out that it takes more than a random person talking to me to get distracted. But if he offers me a Shamrock Shake, I'm fuckin' done."

So when you're on campus, make sure you keep a nostril open for the smell of McDonalds, for if you smell it, you shall soon be visited by the mysterious Facob Jorbes.
