Finlandia Declares War

by Corey Tindall ~ Daily Bull

Breaking news! This just in! Finlandia University has declared war on Michigan Tech! As this is being written, Finlandia is throwing snowballs at the Administration building in hopes of somehow bringing the building down. As you can imagine, the building seems to not be phased by the snow because it's already covered in it.

Finlandia does claim to have a secret weapon on their hands that they will "use to destroy us if we do not surrender immediately." I assume that it is something along the lines of a large snow ball that could maybe break a window or two if they were actually able to get it across the bridge.

I am getting a statement from the Dictator, I mean, President of Finlandia right at this very moment.

"We are declaring war on Michigan Technological University for the following reasons: 1. We are tired of you guys making fun of us all the time. It really hurts our feelings and we are tired of going to bed in tears. 2. Everyone that comes up to the Keweenaw only wants to visit Tech and we want some of the glory too! 3. You guys always... Hey! Stop laughing at me while I am saying this! You're going to make me sad. You all will feel the wrath of Finlandia University! Our bloodlines are strong from years of inbreeding up here in Hancock and we will destroy your university!"

The university also released a propaganda video of Michigan Tech students outside in the cold with almost nothing to wear and almost no food to eat. The video depicts us as "barely surviving." It also shows Finlandia students happily shoveling snow and drinking hot chocolate by a gigantic fire. This is trying to show the student population of less than 700 at Finlandia

Where the Fuck Did the Fish Go?

by Abigail Skibowski ~ Daily Bull

With the change in seasons, people are starting to slowly creep their way outside and getting reacquainted with the outdoors. This is causing nature enthusiasts to focus on The Portage yet again. However, there seems to be one thing missing, environmentalists say. The question of this spring: Where the fuck are all of the fish?

Environmentalists were beginning to study how the fish fared this harsh winter and were baffled when they discovered that there were no fish to actually study. There are many theories on what happened to the fish. Some say that they migrated south for the winter. Others say that they're all hiding under invisibility cloaks. The most reoccurring conspiracy is that there is something in the water. To be more accurate, there is definitely something creeping under the bridge.

We are unsure of the nature of this beast, or even if it is a beast at all. We do know one thing; the fish are gone and the jelly supply of Houghton is diminishing. This could only mean one thing-jellyfish sandwiches.

We interviewed one student who is certain that The Jellyfish Monster does exist.

"I saw it with my own eyes. I was trying to make a pb and j with meemaw's jelly and it was missing. In a fit of rage I went looking for the jelly and stumbled on something that cannot be unseen," Shi Cyko explained.

We asked Shi to explain what she saw and her story was thrilling.

"I never got to see what the creature looked like. All that even though we out number them 10:1, they still would have a fighting chance because of the fact that we are all almost dead already.

We asked a couple of Tech students what they thought of the situation that was going on with Finlandia and one of them had this to say. "You know, even if they did actually try to do some damage to us with their 'secret weapon,' the whole state and every other Public University would be on our side of this war. It would be even less of a fair fight."

Another student, who I assume wasn't completely "with us", had this to say. "Yeah man, I don't even really know what's really going on with this whole Finlandia war thing... One sec... [He took a large hit from a bong]. All I know is that when my bro told me about it I was like 'Dude! It's like that fucking North Korea thing!' Then I went and watched that song in Team America about that one little Asian dude being lonely and shit. Then I watched the whole movie... Have you seen it?! Oh, it's so good man... America! Fuck Yeah!"

Drinking Solves All of Student's Problems

by Rico Bastian ~ Daily Bull

It was reported this week that after a night of binge drinking, all of James Kelley's problems were resolved. His many problems, which include failing grades, a dead end relationship, and a battle with his own weight, were non-existent the morning after.

"When I woke up on the floor with a pile of my own vomit, it felt like a great weight had been lifted from me," Kelley said. "I looked at my phone and saw that I had made several calls over the course of the night to my girlfriend. Apparently we had a very emotional talk about our relationship and where it was going and we both decided that it would be best for us to split up. She's not even mad at me."

Friends of Kelly who witnessed him putting his life back on track in his intoxicated state were all amazed by the initiative and professionalism he displayed as he fixed each and every one of his problems

"Yeah, James owed me twenty bucks and paid it back to me with interest last night," friend of Kelley Trevor Feldman said. "Not only that, but he came clean about sleeping with my girlfriend a few weeks back, explained how it was a terrible mistake that had been haunting him since then, and how he meant nothing by it. He also told me that I should leave her because 'once a cheater, always a cheater'. I was about ready to beat his ass when he introduced me to Kirsten. She's a really nice girl, and we both have a love of fishing and cars. We really hit it off."

Now that all of his troubles are no more, James plans on staying in this weekend and spending some quality time with Emma, a beautiful girl whose heart he wholly captured while under the influence of alcohol.

I saw was a mountain of sandwiches. A MOUNTAIN OF SANDWICHES, I'M TELLING YOU! It smelled of trout and strawberries. With further investigation I found that the monster was making jellyfish sandwiches with MY JELLY!" Shi then proceeded to tell us nothing was right in Houghton anymore.

She ripped off her clothes and ran away. Our interviewers were unsure of what to do next. We contacted the city and asked what their plans were for The Jellyfish Monster.

"Yeah, if this monster could stop taking all of the fish and our Smuckers, that would be great. My kid needs his lunch," one city official commented. In times like these, extra security measures have been taken around Michigan Tech's campus to ensure the safety of jelly everywhere. Do not be alarmed if you see people on the top of the MEEM or hiding in a snow bank. They are on the lookout for the creature so the Portage can get back to prime condition and you no longer have to have just pb sandwiches.

Found them. All of the fish. Here they are. Good luck getting them back. What's the point of fishing, again?
