

Tip for Success: Shake your soda before drinking. Doing so mixes the syrup and sugar to give it the best taste possible.

Civil Eng. senior already drinking in celebration of Winter Carnival Study: 'The' U of M students have increased risk of stick-in-ass syndrome That Kid ruins grading curve again

The Daily Bull's Guide to Michigan Tech

by Chase "Bran Muffin" Peterson ~ Daily Bull

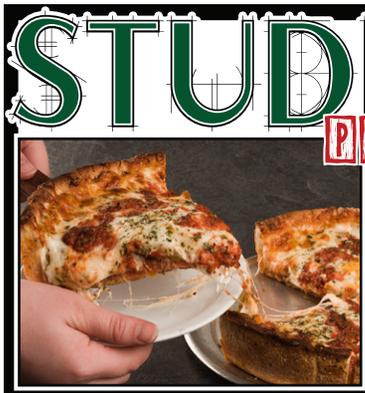

Welcome to the world famous Michigan Technological University. We here at the Daily Bull would like to take some time to help all you freshmen, and that one weird, but cute looking girl find your way around campus. To that end we offer you the infamous Daily Bull's Guide to Michigan Tech.

Administration Services: This is where you go when you need to take out more student loans, get parking passes (good luck!).

ME-EM: The full name of this building is "Mechanical Engineering-Engineering Mechanics", yeah, you read that right. It's ok though, those poor MEs don't understand things unless you explain it in two different ways utilizing both advanced calculus and a chicken.

MUB: This is the most important building on campus. Not only does it house all of the student activity organization things, it is also home to the greatest collegiate satirical news paper currently printed on 8½" x 11" paper. You guessed it, you currently hold a copy in your hand (you lucky husky, you!). Also see Pepsi on back

STUDIO PIZZA

PIZZAS PIZZA LOVERS LOVE!
Daily Specials at www.thestudiopizza.com
10% Discount for All Students
Downtown Hancock, across from Finlandia

Don't Settle For Crappy Pizza!
Get A Large Studio Pepperoni
Pizza For As Little As $8 !!

www.thestudiopizza.com
482-5100

Dick Slang

by Theresa Tran ~ Daily Bull

This summer, I had the chance to visit several countries to emerge myself in different cultures. My goal was to talk to the adolescents to see what trends them and their friends were sharing and experiencing together. A few of the places that I visited were South Africa, Thailand, Iceland, and Australia. Each country's group of young people had their own unique ways of having fun being hip. In Australia, it was cool to drink out of Camelbacks while traveling along the west coast of South America hitting as many surf spots as possible. This would also include staying at the local hostels meeting natives and buying a bracelet from each town visited. It was interesting to hear that most Australians were afraid to visit the States due to the rumors that obesity was contagious. In Thailand, kids ran around on Razor scooters doing back flips and any other tricks that they could successfully complete. This would be nearly impossible since the place I visited in Thailand was flat and full of trees. Seeing as Thailand is very close to my native country, many of the locals thought that I, myself, was a local.

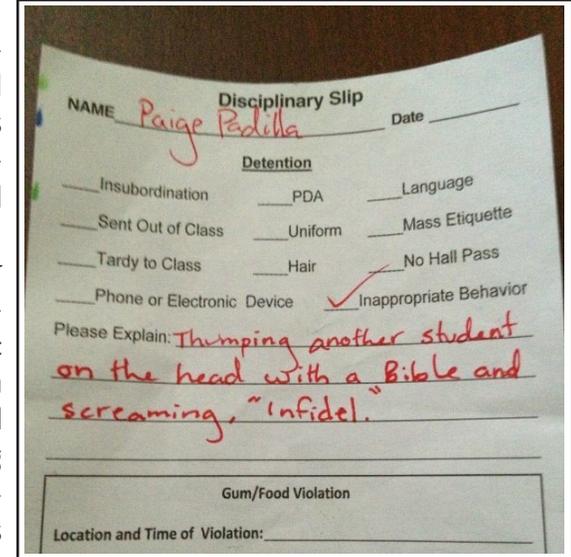

Meanwhile, in the streets of South Africa, kids have been sharing each other's company in the form of interpretive dancing. Although in all of the other countries that I visited, both males and females took part in the social lingo; in South Africa, it was more appropriate for only males to perform. Kids called this interpretive dancing: dick slang. Dick slanging requires having no shirt on and loosely fittings shorts with a snapback hat on sideways. It is the act of putting your hands on your waist then flinging and shaking your body side to side. This will normally enable the kid's intimate parts to dance back and forth. I was able to talk to Lucky Humps, a visiting Australian, about what he thought about this national phenomenon in South Africa.

see The Opposite of Pepsi on back

We do not grow absolutely chronologically. We grow sometimes in one dimentions and not in another; unevenly. We grow partially. We are relative. We are mature in one realm, childish in another. The past, present and future mingle and pull us backward, forward, or fix us in the present. We are made up of layers, cells, constellations.

--Anais Nin

Pic O' The Day!

from Pepsi on front

the Hellenistic traditions are now housed here (fraternities and sororities). Speaking from experience, don't piss them off.

Chem-Sci: This is one of the few buildings that doesn't have a funny name after it. You can find chemistry here. However this reporter thinks it's all bunk, I had a class in here and didn't feel anything with my lab partner, then again it might have been because he was a very angry marine.

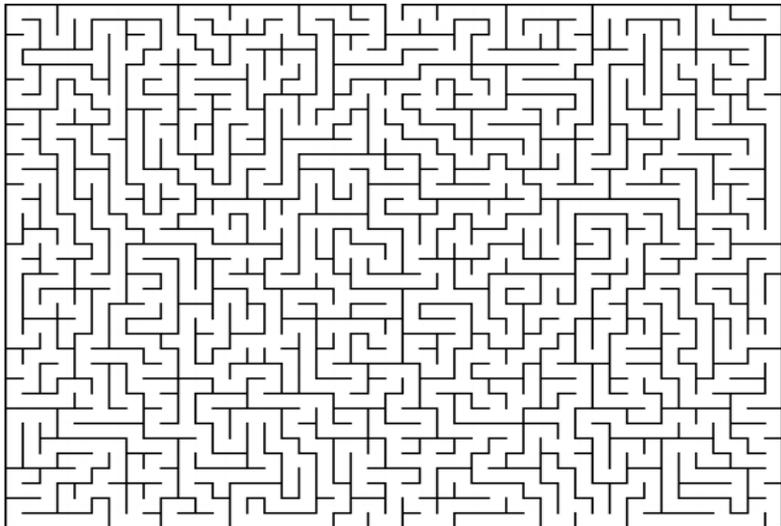

EERC: The EERC is home to both the electrical engineering program and all the technology programs (you know, those guys who learn the formulas and how to put crap together, don't anger them, they have power tools and know how to use them).

Rehki: This is the home of all the CS students. In order to make their students feel more at home, that have removed, or blacked out most of the windows. If you see one of the denizens of this place, don't make any sudden movements, as they are kept alive on a steady diet of caffeine and sugar.

Fisher: They keep all the physics and math here. Beware of abnormal gravity and stray differentials. Also if you need to take either Calc II or DiffEq, you want to take that from Todd King. He knows his shit.

Walker/Rozsa : They have humanities classes here. They also have the Theater department here. Watch out for the actors in the program as they are almost impossible to pick out (they are really good at their craft).

It's A Maize

from The Opposite of Pepsi on front

"It's great that the blokes out here are able to express themselves with their bodies. Personally, I find it uplifting and fitting for these young boys to dance however they want to. It's like they are giving their dicks a voice, you know? It is pure brilliance mate- just so clever. "

What kind of interpretations are these kids trying to convey with dick slang? Are they trying to sexually harass people in public or are they trying to speak to the world with their natural gifts down under? Well that is up to you to decide folks.

GREAT SON OF LIFE
Alex Dinsmoor
MEAL TICKET
Zachary Evans

GRAND VIZIER
Elise Conley
SECRETARIAT
Kara Bakowski

USURER
Rico Bastian
ADVISOR
Ser David d'Olson

Typewriter Monkeys: Liz 'Riz' Fujita, Nathan 'Invincible' Miller, Jeanine 'Chmielewski, Jeremy 'Mr. Sunshine' Loucks, Sam Schall, Veronica Tabor, Chase Peterson, Corey Tindall, Theresa Tran, Abigail Skibowski, Evan Krettek, and ROBCO specialists.

©2013 by the Daily Bull, a non-profit organization. All rights reserved. Articles may be freely distributed electronically or on late night talk shows provided credit is given, and that this notice is included. The Daily Bull reserves the right to refuse any advertisements or articles without reason. All letters sent to the editor (on paper or to bull@mtu.edu) will be treated as material to be published unless expressly stated otherwise by the sender. Original works printed in the Daily Bull remain the property of the creator, however the Daily Bull reserves the right to reprint any submissions in future issues unless specifically asked not to do so by the creator. All opinions presented are purely those of the writer and do not reflect the opinions of the University or the Daily Bull. If you keep reading this small text, you will be exterminated.

The Daily Bull would like to thank the Daily Bull for buying our own damn printer that this publication is printed on. We would also like to thank the Student Activity Fee for helping to pay for our paper and toner costs. Advertising inquiries, questions & comments should be directed to bull@mtu.edu

Hey! Listen!

The Daily Bull

We're online!

Subreddit of the Week: /r/explainlikeimfive

by Anony-whaaat? ~ Daily Bull

Why, when I brush my teeth at night and have clean teeth, do I wake up with horrible breath?

What's the deal with people thinking Beanie Babies would grow in value?

Why does the electronic button only work for my car and not every one in the lot?

Fear not, curious Redditor! There's a subreddit for that: r/explainlikeimfive. It's a place where people ask interesting questions and get relatable, friendly answers. The explanations are supposed to be in lay terms, approachable, and clear -- but not as though aimed at an actual five-year old. Let's not jump from 'useful' to 'patronizing and childish.'

The questions range from the scientific ("Quantum Tunneling, anyone?") to the political ("someone explain this whole Syria thing, please?") to the just plain weird ("ELI5: Scientology"). It's a great place to learn random facts, and a lot more sociable than just reading Simple Wiki by yourself in the dark.

Of course, explaining like you're five has built-in dangers. There is always a risk of attack from That Guy, who pops in to demean an explanation as "way too simple and not accurate." These people are largely ignored and reminded that if they care that much they can take a hike over to r/askscience where they belong.

ELI5 is a good use of 5 - 10 minutes of your day. Pop on over to find out about money, Rogaine, the 50-state system, eardrums, and everything else in between!