Surgeon General Deems League of Legends More Unhealthy than Cocaine

by Steve "Wrecking Ball" Smith ~ Typewriter Monkey

In a shocking announcement today, the United States Surgeon General declared that the popular MOBA League of Legends (LoL) is worse for the health of university students than the use of cocaine. "Not only does LoL encourage a sedentary lifestyle, but it leads to many other unhealthy habits," government officials stated. In order to understand the facts, first we must look into the many benefits of cocaine use.

Cocaine is an excellent study helper in times of need because it causes skyrocketing in dopamine levels. Students who use cocaine don't even realize that the hopeless drivel that they are learning is dreary, dull, and debilitating. They actually tend to enjoy studying significantly more while on cocaine. In addition to helping attitudes toward studying, students who use cocaine can also be extremely motivated to exercise and improve their bodies. No better way to get those firm toned abs than to do a quick line before you zip down to the quad core! Finally, sharing cocaine with others is a great way to make friends. Everyone wants to get in tight with the guy who is doling out lines of blow like he's the Santa Claus of dope.

Conversely, LoL has many addictive factors that make it by far the most terrible thing you can do for your body. The fact that it is free to play makes it even easier to start using than angel dust. You can't just run out of League and hit rock bottom, the worst that can happen to end your tirade of online

Male Image in Society

by Theresa Tran ~ Typewriter Monkey

The male image in society has been roughly interpreted as "vulgar yet insecure." Men roam the world and are known throughout society as sexual creatures that are emotionally dependent and using their bodies to get what they want. Society has portrayed the male body as an object rather than as human beings. It can be seen on college campuses that females pursue men they find attractive then leave them behind to mourn in search of new prey to pounce on. The women have turned this into sport and compete to see how many men they can go through within various time periods.

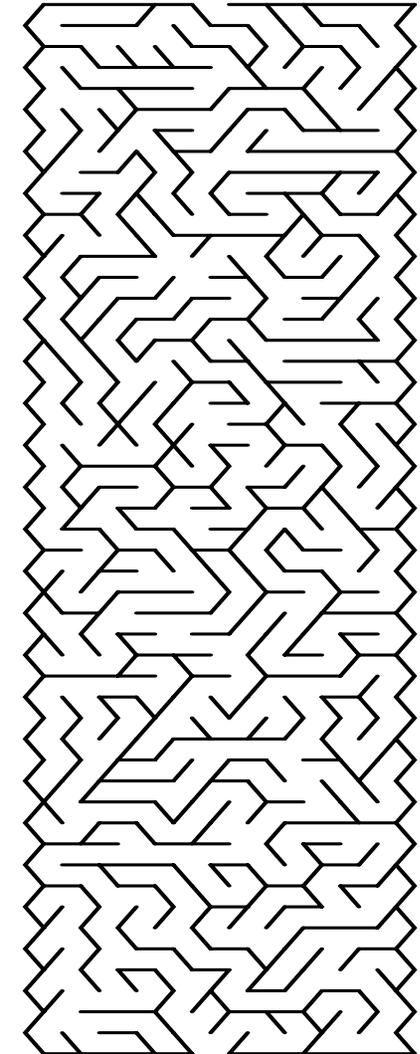

This is offensive and rude especially to the masculinists. Recently, I visited the Society of Masculinists to speak about their reaction to male image in society. I had the opportunity to speak with the president of the organization, Perry, about his personal response.

Perry Platypus stated, "I feel really offended that women think they can just get sex from me and then not try to get to know me. It really hurts my feelings and I don't know what to do. It makes it really difficult when I can't seem to get serious with a woman...makes me feel like I'll be alone forever."

Women have been seen as powerful beings with high paying jobs and superior to their male counterparts. Many women have been known to graduate with higher GPAs than the men or move onto play professional sports soon after graduating high school. Research has shown that professional men's sports have plummeted the past few years resulting in only a few sports still flourishing.

If you would like to volunteer at the society of masculinists, feel free to contact Perry at his email: PlatypusLove@ghey.org. They are looking for people, male and female, who are passionate about destroying the negative male image of sex and objectification in mass media.

speed clicking is a serious injury like carpal tunnel syndrome. In addition, once players hit level 30, they have often been known to fall into the awful pitfall known as the "ranked grind." This involves spending endless hours (that could be spent prancing around high as a kite) locked in a dark room stuck in Bronze 3 because "NOOB JUNGLER NO GANK GOD DAMMIT PUSSY PIECE OF TRASH ASS BITCH." On a related note, stress from losing lane and feeding the bejesus out of Akali has been known to dangerously increase stress levels in LoL players.

As you can see, playing LoL is a terrible life decision that will probably lead to a downward spiral that will end in you dropping out of Tech to pull 16 hour days to be the best; sucking dicks in back alleys for RP money so that you can get that new Thresh skin everyone is crazy about. Don't do it. 🙄
