I Got Bored and Posted on Craigslist

by Olivia Zajac ~ Keyboard Deity

As it turns out, being an adult and working full time in a small town gets pretty boring pretty quick. So, I did what any normal adult under the influence of vodka would do: I made a fake ad on Craigslist. I posted the following:

"New Girl in Town is DTF - w4m - 22: Recently moved here from the midwest and I need someone to show me all the southwest has to offer ;) 5'5", fit, blessed in the chest. Show me yours and I'll show you mine! Hope you enjoy blondes, cause we totally have more fun lol ;) NSA. No creeps plz!"

Within minutes I was getting responses. Due to the terrifying amount of dick pics I received (no, seriously, HUNDREDS), I scrapped going through and doing any actual statistical analysis. Being a real life engineer now, I'm gonna ballpark my stats for you by the top common themes in messages and pictures.

General Penis Shots - I'd say about...oh...70-75% of the interested men sent me pictures of their raging boners. Some were actually impressive. Others, not so much. I'd say about 4 or 5 used some sort of object for scale. I was disappointed to not see a single banana for scale. Whether it was a hand, a phone, or whatever happened to be lying about. The saddest one I remember is of a rather flaccid dick just kinda flopped on the bathroom sink.

In a Vehicle - So, I think this is what men do to amuse themselves at stop-lights since they aren't touching up their make-up or some other stereotypical female thing. Of all the dick pics or face shots I got, easily 80% of them were

More Consolidations to Come

by Elise Conley ~ Composition Editor

HOUGHTON – Due to the unmitigated success of IT's consolidation of computer labs across campus, relocating the labs to banks of computers in the library, Facilities has decided to implement some consolidations of their own.

A poll was circulated through the Michigan Tech Lode, and results were overwhelmingly in favour of consolidating all of the washrooms on campus. After some digging, it was revealed that the same four people that responded to the survey about adding the pond in the middle of campus were the only four people that responded to said survey, and may comprise the entirety of the Lode's readership.

"We collected some numbers last semester—you know, just some basic stuff like how often each bathroom was used by how many people versus how much we spent on the maintenance and time spent cleaning them. In reality, we really don't need bathrooms in every building," an anonymous source in Facilities reported Friday.

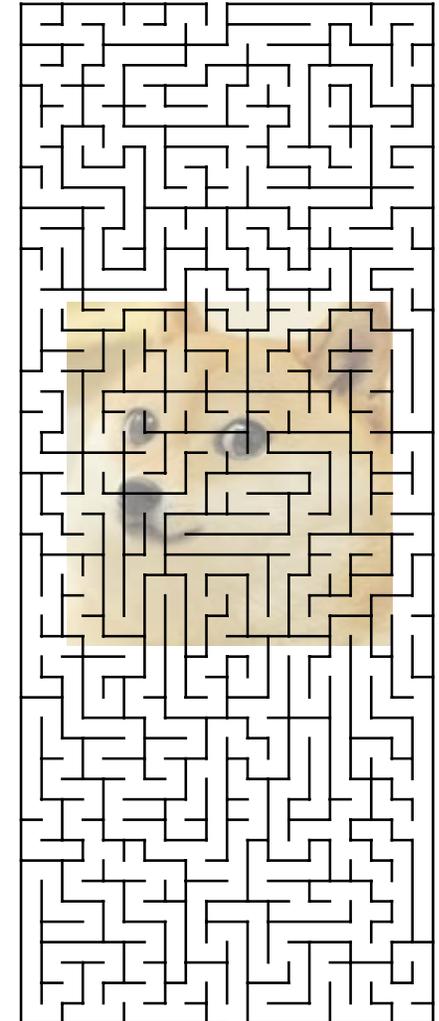

"We have decided to follow in IT's footsteps and consolidate every bathroom on campus. We're thinking about putting them all in the Forestry building."

Arthur Brown, an employee in Facilities, spoke to the Bull about the proposed changes.

"I think this change is great. It's really for the better. I mean, I'm not going to have to worry about twelve bathrooms in two buildings that are connected to each other. Y'all have legs. Y'all can walk. Plus, think of the savings on unused toilet paper and cleaning products! Maybe they'll even lower tuition!" With that final statement, Brown was locked into his straight jacket and was wheeled away, giggling all the while.

No official reports of this exist yet, as no official statements have been made as of now. It is almost assured that this may be one of the most polarising changes on campus this year, falling only behind the move of the broomball rinks from the Walker green space to a grassy knoll outside Calumet. 🐾

such maze...wow

"Facing this stuff in real life is not like school. In school if you make a mistake you can just try again tomorrow, but out there when you're a second away from being murdered or watching a friend die right before your eyes, you don't know what that's like."

in a vehicle. Nothing says "I'm a hot stud" quite like seeing a boner at an angle where you can see the dick, torso, face, window and neighboring cars in the shot. I know it gets me going.

Bad Dirty Talkers - Seeing as I was drunk while going through this, I decided to message a bunch of them and ask in detail what they would do to me if I was in a room with them alone. I have never laughed so hard as reading some of the things men wanted to do to me. The words pussy, cum, fuck, cream, wet, and dick were never used in such bad fashion before. The standout one liner I remember was "I will fuck you so hard your legs will twitch". Oh, baby baby.

Old Dudes - Okay, maybe they weren't really that old. I'll ballpark about... 40% of the interested fellows at 45 years or older. One guy even sent me a picture of him and his daughter that looked roughly my age. Major turn on there. Of these, I had 3 men ask if I was willing to have the sexy time with a man in an unhappy marriage. Srsly.

Creeps - This one was really no surprise. I mean, it's Craigslist. I was throwing around 'lol' more than I ever have in my life. But I did have to lecture one dude on why rape jokes weren't funny. Ugh.

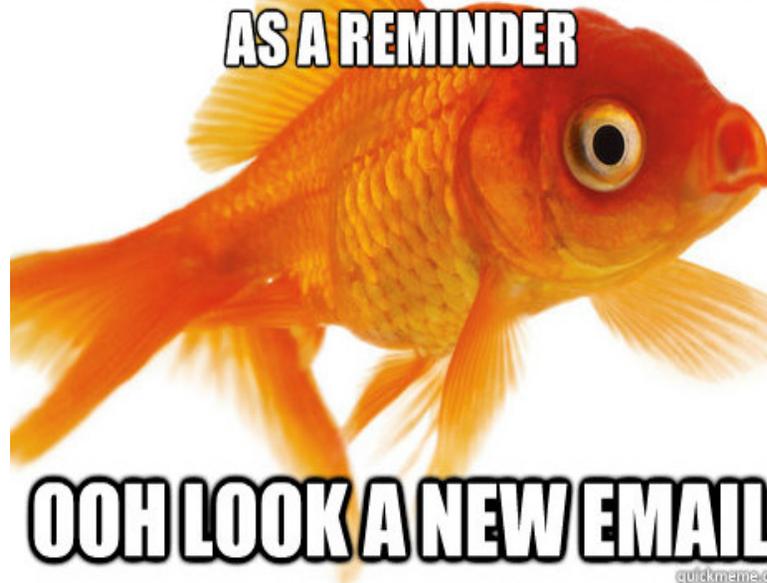

Overall, it was a highly entertaining experience. I'm still getting emails from people, but haven't bothered to respond anymore. I think the fun has worn off and now it's just as creepy and jizz-stained as any old dorm mattress. ☹
