

The Daily Bull is probably not suitable for those under age 18 and should not be taken seriously...like new puzzles!

Classic Literature Rewritten as Smut

by Anony-whaaat? ~ Staff Writer

I read a lot of books. While perusing the popular literary social network Goodreads the other day, I noticed that they were having a giveaway for a book called Wuthering Nights -- a sexy, presumably raunchy version of Wuthering Heights. Shudder. I would never read such a book, but it got me wondering what other books from our high school English classes would be like if rewritten as erotic harlequin romance novels. Here's what I think. Feel free to submit your own thoughts to bull@mtu.edu and we might just publish you!!

A Tale of Two Titties: A young orphan (this time a girl!) in old London learns of a mysterious physician operating a business in pre-revolution Paris. She travels to France to have her bosom enlarged, earning her many male suitors.

The Harlot Letter: Basically the same as the Scarlet Letter, but instead of an A for adultery, Hester Prynne wears a giant letter H for "hoebag." Sex scenes are more graphic and probably involve sex toys not invented in the time of author Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Romeo and Jeweliet: The story of an unlikely pair of lovers -- a local businessman and a stripper whose specialty is balancing on balcony railings while being acrobatic. It ends with a modern twist of them both becoming blackout drunk, vowing to only love one another, then waking up to remember none of it.

The Art of Whore: Sun Tsu's ancient Chinese classic on how to choose the proper hooker when wandering see A Clockwork Orgy on back

Knowledge is a thing that one cannot have enough of. It is the fruit of wisdom, to be eaten carefully and digested fully, unlike that lunch you are bolting down, little friend.
—Brian Jacques (Redwall)

Sunshine's Sports Corner: Detroit Tigers Manager Search

by Jeremy 'Mr. Sunshine' Loucks ~ Old Guy

It's October, and that means that the sportsball known as baseball is winding down. Detroit's team, the Tigers, had very high hopes this season, led by some of the best players in modern times. However, due to their stunning loss to the Boston Douchebags Steroid Users Red Sox, they were eliminated. Afterwards, their long-time, ancient manager, Jim "Smokes" Leyland, decided to step down, citing being way too old. This means that one of the best teams in baseball is now looking to hire a new manager. The Daily Bull sports section (Wooo sportsball!!) decided to take a look at some potential candidates for the position.

Gene Lamont/Lloyd McClendon: The most obvious choices are the other coaches still on the rosters, mainly the two that both have managerial experience. Both of them managed the Pittsburgh Pirates, aka the Detroit Lions of MLB. Both of them are incredibly terrible. What this team needs is someone familiar with the team, but new to coaching...

Brandon Inge: The big Bambino would be a great coach for the Tigers. He's well-loved in town; hell, many cougars in Downriver still swoon at the thought of him playing 3rd instead of that Cabrera dude. He's a former catcher, just like Leyland was, and everyone knows how well catchers manage teams. Plus, he's got quite the temper, which is a plus when dealing with those pesky umpires with all their blown calls.

Brad Ausmus: Another former Tigers catcher (what, is Gerald Laird or Ivan Rodriguez next?). This one actually graduated from Dartmouth and actually has some managerial experience, even if it was just Team Israel in the World Baseball Classic. That's the equivalent of being a baseball manager in a movie, but it's better than see Whore of the Rings on back

Magic Square

Below is a grid, around each shaded number are 8 white squares. However, each white square should have a number from 1 to 7. Once filled in, these 8 numbers will sum to the shaded number. In addition, once completed correctly, no row nor column will contain a duplicate number within a white square.

	26		35		37
	31		36		39
	38		26		24

FRI, OCT 25
8PM

FAUXGRASS U.P. CD RELEASE!

Orpheum Bluegrass Favorites FAUXGRASS will be back for their New CD Release Party!!

SIGN UP FOR THE ORPHEUM EMAIL LIST: JUST EMAIL "SUBSCRIBE" TO THEORPHEUMTHEATER@GMAIL.COM

from A Clockwork Orgy on front

the streets of a city late at night. Includes defense strategies against secret assassin hookers, secret enemy spy hookers, and generally combative hookers who demand more than they are paid.

Don Quixote

Don Quixote: Basically the same as was written, but instead of fighting away windmills he fights away windmills using his dildo-jousting skills. Sancho Panza is more like Dirty Sanches Panza, which makes the dildo-jousting even weirder.

Animal Farm: I mean.... animals. And farmers. "All animals are equally sexy, but some animals are equally sexier than others."

Frank in Stein: After surviving a horrific house fire, Frank undergoes reconstructive surgery to 95% of his body (including his genitals) that leaves him somehow more handsome than ever -- plastically reconstructed abs, biceps, and more. Trouble arises when he tries to woo a woman, Annabelle Stein, who finds his rescued self both repulsive and utterly irresistible.

from Whore of the Rings on front nothing. This guy might have to choose between the Cubs, Phillies, and Tigers. Hmm...one of those is better than the others.

One of the many other Retreads: Guys like Manny Acta, Charlie Manuel, etc. These are like choosing between a turd, a douche, and a flaming back of cow pies. None of them are worth giving another try.

Ozzie Guillen: While he definitely gets along with the latin players, his mouth makes a fleet of sailors blush. Plus he once managed those Pale Hoes White Sox.

Stan's Dad (from South Park): Bat-DAAAAAD beware! Stan's dad, possibly everyone's favorite Geologist not named Sunshine, would be an amazing coach. He really knows how to motivate a team and a fanbase, and he's sarcastic enough to confuse the gruffest of ump's. Heck, he once invented the entire sport of Sarcastiball, so you know he's a sports guy. Illitch would be a fool to not hire him.

There are probably other candidates, but who really cares? It's HOCKEY season!

 The Daily Bull

 @MTUBull

Subreddit of the Week: /r/NotTheOnion

by Kara Bakowski ~ Secretariat

Background: The Onion is a satirical "news" site, known for posting stories about controversial topics. The stories are absolutely absurd and in no way true, but clever enough to make you go "wait, what?" when it pops up in your Facebook news feed. Kinda like The Daily Bull, except they publish more and their writers are probably paid.

The Onion's headlines are so funny, they have to be made up. But what happens when news is funny, and actually true? It gets posted to /r/NotTheOnion! The headlines here are for 100% true news stories, from reliable sources.

This subreddit is a window into the weird shit that happens in the world. Almost every headline will make you facepalm and wonder how some people could possibly be so strange.

Yesterday's headlines include: "Art student will lose his virginity in front of an audience for project", "Florida woman arrested for squirt-gun attack on boyfriend", "Pet Chickens Can Now Safely Cross the Road With These Amazing Reflective Vests."

...seriously? Why in the world do chickens need reflective vests? Someone apparently thinks so, and I guess it might make sense to chicken owners (they're even lined with NASA-approved insulation!). But see what we just did? We didn't believe chicken vests were a thing. But they are. The more you know.

And then there are things such as "Mother jailed for ripping off son's genitals, gluing them back on." You can't make this shit up. I WISH I could make that up. Good thing we don't need to.

DAILY BULL

EDITOR IN CHIEF Alex Dinsmoor
COMP EDITOR Elise Conley
BEAN COUNTER RICO Bastian
REAL TICKET Zachary Evans
SECRETARIAT Kara Bakowski
ADVISOR David Olson

Typewriter Monkeys: Liz 'Riz' Fujita, Nathan 'Invincible' Miller, Jeanine Chmielewski, Jeremy 'Mr Sunshine' Loucks, Sam Schall, Veronica Tabor, Chase Peterson, Corey Tindall, Theresa Iran, Abigail Skibowski, Evan Krettek, Joshua Stuemoges, and a washed up catcher.

©2013 by the Daily Bull, a non-profit organization. All rights reserved. Articles may be freely distributed electronically or on late night talk shows provided credit is given, and that this notice is included. The Daily Bull reserves the right to refuse any advertisements or guest articles without reason. All opinionated letters sent to the editor (on paper or to bull@mtu.edu) will be treated as material to be published unless expressly stated otherwise by the sender. Original works printed in the Daily Bull remain the property of the creator, however the Daily Bull reserves the right to reprint any submissions in future issues unless specifically asked not to do so by the creator. If you keep reading this small text, you'll google some of those titles and learn they're real!

The Daily Bull would like to thank the Daily Bull for buying our own damn printer that this publication is printed on. We would also like to thank the Student Activity Fee for helping to pay for our paper and toner costs. And our vuvuzelas.

Advertising inquiries, questions & comments should be directed to bull@mtu.edu

 DailyBull.students.mtu.edu

Get the Bull in your email daily! Send an email to bull@mtu.edu with subject line "Add me to the list!"