Give thanks for what you have, then immediately go out and try to kill another human for deals on what you COULD have

The Daily Bull is probably not suitable for those under age 18 and should not be taken seriously... like tradition!

Freshman to Write Musical About Tech Life

by Elise Conley ~ Bull Architect

HOUGHTON – Freshman Daniel Graham has taken it upon himself to write a musical about his experiences so far at Michigan Tech to make sure that certain aspects of the university's condition are not glossed over.

"I felt like when I got here there were facets of the environment that I wasn't prepared to face. I mean, did you know that the closest real city is Marquette? And I don't even consider it a real city. There's a lot that they really skipped over during orientation and Preview Weekend. I just want to do my part to make sure that all incoming students understand what life is really like up here."

Graham has the full support of the Visual and Performing Arts department, with a score performed entirely by the Pep Band. The full song list is as follows:

- "Guys, there's nothing to do in Houghton,"
- "Why Don't I Have Any Friends?"
- "I'm So Homesick"
- "Why is Engineering so Hard."
- "I'm failing Calc 2"
- "Midterms Are Horrible"
- "It's Snowing in October"
- "HOCKEYHOCKEYHOCKEY"
- "What's Wop?"

Computer Science Students Prepare for Black Friday

by Alex Dinsmoor ~ Caesar of Articles

With Black Friday rapidly approaching, Computer Science students prepare for their biggest gathering of the year (outside of World of Warcraft): Black Friday. CS students of every shape and size have been scouring the internet for the greatest and latest deals, preparing for their annual pilgrimage to Best Buys across the country to obtain some of the greatest deals that many of them have seen in their lives.

"Every year I start searching in August" CS major Jonathan Tworksberry told The Bull, "I scour every corner of the internet for any and all leaked deals. I don't even care who they are from too. This year, I've found some great deals on toddler socks and car air freshener scented candles!" Jonathan also went on explain how he's been saving up money all year long for this, ever since last Black Friday. "I've been working constantly to save up enough money for this year's sales. I'm really hoping to score a 4D 90" Hologram TV. It'll be great for playing League."

Another local student made headlines when he forgone all of his classes this week and drove over to Marquette to camp out in front of Best Buy. "This year is going to be the best Black Friday ever," MTU CS major Ethan Nevermore exclaimed, "I haven't seen the entire ad, but I just know that there are going to be some great deals this year. I can feel it in my physical activity deprived bones!" The student has been making national headlines, many calling him "idiotic" or "a bit too obsessed". He on the other hand, calls himself a "visionary".

Although some students are obsessed with planning out every single detail, there are lots of CS majors who take a more carefree approach to it all.

from Barry Trotter on front
 Daily Bull Editor-In-Chief Alex Dinsmoor (a closet CS major), often takes this approach to it all. "I normally just sit down Thanksgiving morning and paw through the ads, looking to see if there's anything that really strikes my fancy." When other CS majors heard of this, he has since been shunned from any CS events. He vows to "step up his game" this year. "It was terrible, I felt like Rudolph. None of them would let me play in their CS games! They even painted my nose red for some reason!"
