Women Protesting On Campus

by Chase 'Cupcake' Peterson ~ Patisserie

Students received a bit of a shock this morning when the temperature began to dip into the subzero region. However this shock was mitigated and replaced with the realization that all 1000 women on campus were protesting the abuse of AXE body spray.

With brightly colored signs decrying the overly fragrant spray and chanting such slogans as "hey, hey, ho, ho that skunk spray has got to go!" The scene was complete chaos this morning as campus security and police forces from Calumet, Lake Linden, Dollar Bay, Chassell, South Range and Painesdale were called in to provide assistance in controlling the female population of Michigan Technological University. With the extra three peace officers the situation returned to a being a peaceful, if somewhat confusing, protest.

Fifth year environmental engineer Paige Wachoski-Smith-Herald-Turner was at the head of the protest. When asked for a statement she exclaimed "have you walked into a classroom lately? I used to like the smell of it because it reminded me of teenage boys and my first few years here at tech, but now? Ye gods, it's like the freshmen have given up bathing all together and have just started to drench themselves with that crap every day". Ms. Wachoski-Smith-Herald-Turner continued "and don't even get me started about all those chemicals and when the guys finally do shower, it could be considered toxic run off, hell, I wouldn't be surprised if someone died from using the stuff"

A postdoctoral researcher in the Chemical Engineering department offered "These women are completely correct in protesting the body spray" he continued "the solvents that are used in the delivery system can be quite toxic, causing irregular heartbeats and even death." The researcher was referring to the unfortunate case in 2008 where a 12 year old boy was overzealous in his application of an equivalent brand, fell unconscious and unfortunately died from heart complications.

Dark Lord Rising

by Sam Kolesar ~ Staff Writer

A frightening new movement has been occurring in the environmental student body, Satanic worship. Not your run of the mill teenage experimentation, but full blown animal sacrificing. (Let's hope it stays that way too) Small bits of charred bones and a few discolored "rust" spots have been found in the civil/environmental learning center. That alone raises suspicion but the real give away was finding an inverted pentagram in the men's room. This isn't some pagan gone rouge summoning. It's amateur hour: the circle isn't closed, the star isn't closed, and all the points are unbalanced.

This new shift for the environmental students could only have come from the long line of environmental disasters. The BP oil spill, the continent of plastic garbage, and the Fukushima nuclear disaster. Each blow to the ecosystem straining the tofu eating tree hugging students more and more. A few have even made large claims of reclaiming the environment. One Joe Diffy, also known "Dirty Joe", has revealed the master plan.

"It's really all about saving the earth from humanity. We've tried too long to fix the system from within. Big business and oil have compromised every effort to fix the untold damage we have inflicted on the planet. There's a fucking continent of PLASTIC floating in the Pacific Ocean." At this point our interview got tense. He started foaming at the mouth and working his fingers but continued his tirade full steam ahead.

"Just think of all the suffering! Animal testing. Barbaric! But we're going to set it all right. You see we've made some new 'professional contacts' that used to work for the other side. With our new backing not only will we be able to enforce reform but we can go even further. The world could be entirely free of human's pollution and greed! It's the final solution! You'll all see when it come around."

He wouldn't reveal anything more than vague threats and a

One undeclared sophomore who wished to remain anonymous offered us her story "I used to have this crush on this really cute computer science guy, we had math together and it was really cool and nice. I mean, he was really socially awkward, and he could barely look me in the shoes, but that was all part of his charm" she remembers "but then his stupid roommate turned him onto that stuff and before I knew it he reeked and I would get the worst headaches just from sitting next to him."

She took a few minutes to compose herself and continued "it got so bad that my grades began to suffer, I didn't want to hurt the kid, so I just moved across the room and whenever he followed me I had to move again. It got to the point where I would show up to class 5 minutes late just so I wouldn't have to see him and I could sit as far away from him as possible"

Fortunately this epidemic can be easily avoided by simply keeping a regular hygiene schedule. One counselor offered "it's a growing problem that we are seeing, too many of these young men are experiencing freedom for the first time and they just go overboard" he continued "most of them grow out of it when they realize that their attempts to attract a mate are failing horribly due to their own self-inflicted stench, but some don't, and I feel bad for the women that need to deal with them." 🐾 menacing stare. This new threat will take some time and training. An unusual amount of environmental engineers and forestry students have started taking intro to art and there aren't any white candles or stray cats to be found anywhere in the greater Houghton area. The icing on these disturbing trend is the twenty percent increase in adoptions from the Copper Country Humane Society

Tech has attempted to ban sacrifices on campus in the past to devastating effects. The amount of students relying on the dark lord to pass exams could reduce Tech's graduation rate by sixty percent. So the ongoing rise of his dark majesty will remain unchecked until someone discovers a compromise. 🐾
