All-Nighter is CRAZY

by Jeremy 'Mr. Sunshine' Loucks ~ Old Man

Houghton, MI: Today is Winter Carnival's All-Nighter, a time of snow, debauchery, drunkenness, free chili, snow, and ridiculousness. Think of this as a guide to crazy things you might see.

Furry Dance Party

The last few years, a group of Furrries has dressed up in costume and spent the evening dancing away in front of the speakers in the middle of campus. Some of them talk, but a few don't, preferring the cloak of anonymity. More than likely one or two of them will be out tonight as well, cavorting in the snow and zaniness.

"Hold my beer and watch this!"

About 4 years ago some guy had so much to drink that he thought he needed to dance. On the roof of a public safety SUV. With public safety inside it. Needless to say, he was only up there for about 15 seconds before he was arrested. Still, made for an impressive visual, and you have to think the guy has balls the size of ostrich eggs. Be on the lookout for similar acts of drunkenness.

Exotic Foods

All-Nighter is a night of fundraising for many student orgs. And what's the best way to make money with a campus full of drunks at night? FOOD. SWE-kebabs, jalapeno hot cocoa, chili, walking tacos, and a variety of other foods can be had. Want something deep-fried? Go check out the pep band's

The Future of Carnival

by Chase 'Cupcake' Peterson ~ Time-Travelling Pastry

I have been time traveling my fellow huskies! I have been to the future and what did I investigate with this wondrous technology? What secrets have I unlocked? What will happen with Google and Apple? Well, that's all a bit passé, but for those of you wondering, in the future, everyone has some form of augmented reality device and everyone knows everything everybody is doing, all the time. Sex has become a new religion, and the two major political parties are still at odds with each other, but they are now called The Dumb and The Stupid.

I went to the future to check out what would happen to Michigan Tech's famous Winter Carnival, and to see if The Bull had made any more suggestive statues. What I found in the future absolutely astounded me. So without future ado, the future timeline:

2018: Glen Mroz retires and moves to Hollywood to become a star at the request of the new president, Bill Murray. President Murray's first action is to make Winter Carnival mandatory for all present and past students and to extend Carnival to a full week long party.

2023: Thanks to the growth of the new hospitality industry in Houghton locals now extremely wealthy. Statues become perfect examples of extreme engineering with the Mechanical Engineering Technology department creating a fully functional mecca that is completely gear driven.

2025: Massive numbers of alumni re-enroll to praise president Murray and learn more, and party even more. Due to the increased housing demand many landlords begin to refurbish the old mine tunnels turning them into dwarf housing.

2026: Snow statues become a competitive sport amongst the various departments, the theater department holds the title for 5 years running due to their ability to function on nothing but stale coffee, pressure, and the knowledge that they are only as good as their last show.

2029: President Murray retires to be overlord of Houghton and constructs a floating mansion in the middle of the portage. Carnival's golden years are now behind them.

2031: Carnival returns to a two-day mini vacation from classes, dwarf housing more popular than ever, know for their underground parties.

There you have it. I have divulged what I know about the future of this glorious event. Just remember, the golden age is right around the corner, so get ready!

booth, offering deep-fried twinkies, snickers, and milky ways. Need a place to sit down and eat?

There's a magnificent pancake breakfast in Fisher that goes through the entire night. Bring a few bucks and enjoy the options.

People Forgetting the Weather

All-nighter this year should have reasonable weather, but that's not always the case. In some years past, it would get to around -10, yet campus would still be packed with people. The dance floor gets so hot that many dancers will remove clothes. The stupidly bold sometimes strip down to their underwear, oblivious to the frostbite they will soon receive.

Snowbank Hobos

As the night wears on, many will retire to their warm beds. Not everyone makes it that far however. Every year, dozens of people get partied out and pass out in snowbanks. If you see someone, make sure to take a scandalous selfie with them, then probably find them some help to make sure they survive the night.

Trash Apocalypse

Thousands of people + drinking + eating = crazy amounts of trash. The sidewalks and roads get littered with empty beer bottles, crushed Styrofoam, spilled chili, dead hookers, abandoned babies, and all sorts of other refuse. The sheer amount of garbage isn't known until the spring thaw, when campus looks more like a soggy landfill than a university.

Atrocious Bathrooms

With so many people on campus and so much fluid intake, you can be the bathrooms are going to be hit rather hard. The problem is, when people drink, they don't have the best aim. And that can lead to some disasters around toilets. Under no circumstances use the first floor bathrooms in Fisher tonight. The men's room will look like someone unleashed a school of one-eyed retards who had a distance pissing match. God have mercy on the pool souls that have to clean it up. You have been warned.
