BREAKING: New Health Bar Appears over Buckingham Palace

Liz Two-Force Member

During the afternoon of September 8th, 2022, Queen Elizabeth II of England passed away at the age of 96. She was the longest reigning monarch in both British and world history, and had ruled over the United Kingdom for 70 years. She had been at her Balmoral residence in Scotland to swear in the new prime minister, who noted she looked very frail, and before she passed she had taken the advice of her ministers to stay in and rest.

Not long after the announcement of her passing, Londoners looked up in awe as a large health bar appeared above Buckingham Palace and quickly filled back up to full. A new name appeared underneath it: "Elizabeth: Goddess of Tea".

As the world entered Phase II of a boss fight it didn't know it was in, there was significant confusion. Some people ran to the hills and ended up all the way in Wales, others brewed tea and offered it to her in a ceremony involving pouring it on the ground in the shape of a Union Jack. Her Corgis ran all the way back to the palace to aid their master in what could possibly be a new form.

So far, the health bar remains above Buckingham Palace, and the Queen has not been seen. Experts are speculating as to what this could mean, and what a new form of the Queen could be like. Some speculate she will have new moves: not just diagonal and laterally, but also one space laterally and one diagonally, giving her full mobility and versatility across the board and ultimate power to place the new King Charles in check. She also may have healing abilities, and a new, different, heavier-rock theme music with way more bass and electric guitar. Others point out that, if she has a Phase II, she may even have a Phase III, just to really throw off the players who spent all their health items and potions early. This new development has also led some to investigate that the powers of tea may be many times more powerful and potent as sustaining life than previously thought.

However, there are some who think this may be one of those fake-out health bars, one that fills up but then gets drained or disappears in a cutscene or QTE. Others think it may simply be a sign from above that she is ascending, taking her final resting place amongst the heavens. Already, they are keeping watch on the stars, watching in case a new constellation appears of the Queen and her corgis. Yet, the health bar remains.

So brew yourself a cup of tea, get some biscuits, color a Union Jack on a notecard with Crayola Crayons, and play some God Save the Queen for the last time, before the United Kingdom rebrands everything to say "King" instead of Queen.

Plans for H-Stem Cancelled in Favor of Obelisk

Dark Brandon

On September 7th at 3:00 AM, Immortal God-President Richard Koubek released a surprise announcement: All construction of the new H-Stem building will be postponed indefinitely and the government grant will now be allocated to building a 30 story obsidian obelisk. Koubek stated in his release that it was “about time that MTU stepped into the modern day to keep up with industry needs.” The announcement, released via scroll bearing eunuch, also cited a growth in “obelisk studies” in the global job market, along with positions like “Blood-Gatherer”, “Groveling Worshiper”, and “Social Media Manager/Consultant” as potential careers. The construction of the obelisk is the start of a 1 million year plan to increase obelisk and obelisk-adjacent sciences at MTU. This plan, dubbed “The Righteous and Holy Crusade for the Ever Living, Ever Furious God” starts with the building of the obelisk, with construction expected to end when the last light in the soul of man has gone out. Balthazar The Death Bringer, head of the project, was reached for comment:

“Obelisk Science is one of the fastest growing fields in the United States today, and not to mention one of the highest paying. Once constructed, industry leaders from all around the globe will be seeking the favor of the obelisk, and will be willing to pay top-dollar for the skills needed to reach that end. Skills like guttural chanting, blood and fire sacrifices, the divination of dark prophecies, and MatLab proficiency will become invaluable in the years to come. By building the all-mighty and all-hating obelisk, we are preparing Michigan Tech students for the industry of tomorrow.”

Plans for the interior of the obelisk were released earlier today. It will have a large atrium on the first floor lit by blue fire and full of altars, making it a perfect place to study or to just chill between classes. There will be a new campus restaurant called The Maddening Hunger which will serve fun snacks like protein bars, small salads, green smoothies, and child souls. How delicious! On the third floor will be the state-of-the-art Judgment Workshop, the first of its kind in the US. Here, Obelisk Science majors will train in the art of interpreting and faithfully enacting the will of an angry god. At the very top of the obelisk is the Dark Lounge, the most beautiful lounge on campus to date. Mosaic facades depicting the victory of the obelisk over the forces of light adorn the uncountable number of walls, the Dark Throne of the Emissary sits beside a 10 foot window looking out over all of campus, and a gorgeous waterfall fountain gushing blood sits at the center of the room. Of course, you will see none of this, because the Dark Lounge will need to be kept pitch black at all times in compliance with Michigan Building Ordinance 11-13b.

So let’s get prepared to give a warm Husky welcome to our new Obelisk!
