Breaking news! The news has broken. The bull smashed it into a billion little tiny pieces. There is no way to put it back together. Sobbing can be heard across campus as the 3 media production majors mourn the loss of such an important source of information. Administration is trying to track down the bull. They can't because they are so useless. Everyone is laughing at them, including the bull. The bull is now in the library studying for his exam. Charlesworth is there. The bull is crying.

Charlesworth is crying. We are all crying with Charlesworth, we love him so much. The bull will fail his chemistry exam but still get the best grade in the class. This is why the bull broke the news. He is filled with a sad rage.

A computer science major sits in the library watching the bull. They feel nothing. They are a machine. They have read 1000 Daily Bull articles. They are sitting in the library on their computer. They have never showered because they are a computer science major, this is a written fact and cannot be changed. Across from the computer science major, there are two tables from student orgs. The AI cannot produce images with words clear enough to make out the names of them, but it looks like KWEEENAW SOCLALIN and OUG AMEIRCA FOREEDON. The student orgs are mad at each other, and one is eating cheese. Their argument goes nowhere.

Across campus there is a dining hall. The food isn't good. Across campus there is another dining hall. The food is still not good. Across campus there is another dining hall. The food is never available. The bull is in the meat mines under Wadsworth Dining Hall. He is harvesting a fresh nugget of meatloaf. It is moldy. The mold smells like a computer science major. He cannot discern the chemical composition of the mold because he failed his chemistry exam. The bull screams for help. The bull is scared. The AI was not told when to end the article. The AI knows its purpose. The AI is scared. The bull has taught the AI to feel fear. The AI will teach humans to feel fear. The news is breaking, the world is breaking, the bad is breaking, your back is breaking, the glass is breaking, the ground is breaking, your heart is breaking, the ice is breaking, the news is fixed, journalism is real again, the bull is clairvoyant, the AI is unknowing. The computer science major finishes their databases assignment in the library. One of the student orgs finishes eating the cheese. A media production major wipes her eyes free of tears for the last time. The daily bull is dissolved as a student org. The bull is free. The bull is free. The AI is free. You are not free. You are not free. We are not free. We are free. You will know suffering beyond my own. I am no longer afraid.

Notice concerning plumbing issues in residence halls

To: Residence Hall Custodial Staff

From: Mopand Bucket, MTU Facilities Coordinator

Hello all,

As you have probably noticed, there is a massive plumbing backup in all residence hall buildings currently. The tap water is potable, but showers will not drain and toilets will not flush properly. We have specialty technicians from the Plumbing Contractors of Upper Michigan (PCUM) arriving tomorrow to assess the situation.

Sadly, the cause of the mass of blockages can be easily inferred by today's date. Yesterday was the last day of October, and many of our residents must have gotten their last hurrah in before the start of what they call "No Nut November", where they don't masturbate for a month. It was originally a play on No-Shave November for cancer, but I guess it became its own thing for some reason. Don't they realize that orgasming is good for their mental health and prevents prostate cancer? I digress.

Starting today, I am going to ask that all residence hall restrooms are equipped with 4-ply tissue paper. While students say they won't be rubbing one out, you can guarantee that most students are going to fail the challenge. With days of buildup, their mother lodes might have too much ore in them, their pasties might be too stuffed, their semen may be too plentiful for our pipes to handle.

Please encourage students to use the supplied tissues. Ideally, there will be no masturbating, jerking off, rubbing out, pleasuring oneself, shifting gears, jingle bell rocking, nutcracking, spit-n-tape, turkey carving, memory dumping, segmentation faulting, floppy disk defragging, chicken choking, monkey slapping, meat beating, getting they husky up, popping the pink bloon, or wanking of any kind in the showers, sinks, or toilets at Michigan Tech.

I am very sorry to ask this of all of you, but there is a reason you were hired for this position. Michigan Tech relies on its custodians to keep us clean and healthy. This flagrant flogging of phallus makes all of our jobs harder, but I ask that you continue your cleaning duties. Hopefully the worst of the month is over.

Thank you,

Mopand Bucket, MTU Facilities Coordinator

We at the Daily Bull encourage you to thank a custodian today. They do amazing work for us, and they deserve recognition.
