Michigan Tech's WOKE ploy that DENIES basic biology!

Reporting done by Cucker Carlson

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen, as there are only ladies and gentlemen. No one else. This is Cucker Carlson Tonight with a Faux News Alert.

No one can deny that we are at a cultural inflection point. On one side, perfectly reasonable people see the necessity of and safety in keeping up the great American way of life. On the other side, we have a group of radical, woke leftists that are so delusional that they want to rewrite basic facts of our society. They want to teach all children that they are racist, they want to abolish all police, and in a move that is stunning in how demented and perverse it is, they want to fundamentally change biology, which we all know is scientific fact. And facts don't care about feelings.

Here... is Michigan Technological University. The northern-most Michigan University is dubbed "The Pride of the Pasty Land", but some of their students may be taking that "pride" too far.

You would think an engineering school -- one that regularly churns out human calculators with the brains and social skills to match -- would take "pride" in their intelligence. Instead, they are rather unintelligently perverting the very nature of sexual anatomy.

Placed in the center of the Houghton, MI Campus is a giant bronze statue of a husky dog, the school's mascot. This statue is specifically male. You can't cancel me, woke media; I am not "assuming anyone's gender" when I say this. You can tell he's male because the dog is rather well endowed. "Blizzard T. Husky", as he is affectionately known, is adorned with his own hockey stick and pucks, as it were. But recently, student activists with Keweenaw + Upper Michigan Student House of Transgenders (KUMSHOT) have put forward a petition to remove the genitalia from Blizzard, the beautiful bronze husky statue.

They claim that this is a step forward for 'inclusivity'. KUMSHOT President Straw Manning said in an interview, "This is one step farther away from a patriarchal campus", and "Blizzard T. Husky is being renamed to 'Blizzard They/Them Husky to promote peace and love." I don't know about you, reader, but I hardly think that removing my own cock and balls would bring about any sort of peace and love. Why must their mascot Blizzard be a martyr? Damned to be castrated by the woke liberals that want to feminize your sons and give rights to your daughters? I say, this isn't a fair fate for our furry friend. Michigan Tech, don't let Blizzard lose his balls!

Thankfully, this woke culture war is not being allowed to continue unchecked. A dedicated group of MTU students, called "Blizzard's Balls Watchmen" (BBW) have chained themselves to Blizzard, refusing to let anyone near Blizzard's ice pick. They regularly polish and shine Blizzard's peninsulas, in a move that they call 'Good for men'. "We want to show the world that the penis and masculinity is not evil. We Watchmen are very dedicated to protecting men's rights, and Blizzard is one of the boys", Watchmen member Buster Bhaels said in an interview.

There you have it, America. Coming out of the great north of Michigan, woke leftists, hell-bent on castration, wanting to outlaw the penis, versus brave patriots, working day after day to protect the penis, going so far as to spit shine it to make it look beautiful and lustrous. May god have mercy on our souls, and let us all keep our balls, no matter how powerful the Cancel may Culture. I'm Cucker Carlson. Goodnight.

Michigan Tech Student Body Concerned After Recent Dean Email

Jelly Jam

As of this week, the Dean of Students for Michigan Technological University, Wallace Northwater I, sent out an email to the Michigan Technological University general student body with information, tips, and good wishes going into the much dreaded (and highly anticipated for some) Finals Week. Some of the tips in the email were normal things to put in a finals week email. These include getting good sleep, staying hydrated, and "huskying down" and "buckling up for impending typhoon of threats." However, some of the tips and tricks given stuck out as odd additions.

Apparently, some students had different variations of the email. They all started the same with a "Hey Huskies, as we move into the final week of the semester, finals are rolling into town as well. I want to foremost wish you the best of luck in the coming week." But then the different forms of the email split off from there. Some students reported their email told them to "make sure any circumcisions performed this week are extremely sanitary and to the benefit of both parties." Another student had said that their email advised them to "take a load off" and "walk the tech trails with just your boots made for walkin', a good walkin' stick, and your most powerful robe." Most interestingly, a majority of students in the College of Business said their emails had simply said "Pick a real major next time." Through all of this rampant confusion, the students certainly had much to say.

Andrew Realguy, a third year Math Major at Michigan Technological University, when asked about the recent email said "Yeah I don't really know if there's some joke I'm missing or the Dean has really changed his tactics to connect with the students here." A poll of students this week has shown that their vote for "Who's Your Favorite Dean" has not changed in face of the recent email. "I dunno, he still feels like the dean that cares for us the most" said April Snows, a fourth year Forestry Major. "It also had a weird amount of spelling mistakes. 13 exactly," continues Snows, "I've heard that there have been 13 spelling mistakes in everyone's email." Anyone who knows the local Houghton area may know that there are 13 hidden obelisks around places of 'immense natural energy', each engraved with symbols of an unknown language resembling early mesopotamian Cuneiform.

Attempts to interview the Dean of Students at Michigan Technological University have gone unanswered, and the Dean of Students at Michigan Technological University has not been seen on campus or in his office since the email was sent. Some students speculate that he is roaming the nearby Nara Nature Park, as there have been 'sightings' of some of the local lake monsters wearing a "DEAN" baseball cap. Any attempts to interview the lake monsters have similarly gone unanswered.

If you have any information about the Dean's wearabouts, do not hesitate to contact us with tips about the Dean of Students at Michigan Technological University.
