DISCORD AMONG US HUSKIES - Funding Catastrophe

When The Student Body Is Sus

Late Wednesday night, Michigan Tech's Undergraduate Student Crewmates gathered for their weekly meeting regarding upcoming tasks, and the ship filled with an audience of over two-dozen MTU crew mates. The main business item of the meeting was whether or not to approve $3,500 of crewmate funding to pay the bill of Susous Impouster, a fellow crewmate who wished to give a speech for $10,000 total. Eleven crewmates gave public comments, one in support of Susous Impouster, and ten in opposition to the funding request. After more than 50 minutes of discussion, the USC committee failed to reach a 2/3rds majority requirement in favor of the funding. The vote had failed.

This funding was originally requested by Red Crewmate, a crewmate part of the Red Alliance District, a group founded by another famous Red Crewmate. MTU RAD had requested this $3,500 after failing to seek alternative funding opportunities after RAD National only paid a portion of Susous Impouster's bill. Red Crewmate created a petition to support USC funding the remaining money, which notably stated that additional funding would be secured through grants and small grassroots funding and donations. The petition also mentioned that the money would be for fulfilling "contractual obligations" made to Susous Impouster.

Red Crewmate briefly explained what the upcoming event was to USC.

"We are hosting a non-partisan event regarding free speech for all crewmates. All crewmates are welcome to attend. We think that having Susous on our ship is going to elevate the level of free speech on our ship, which is good."

One crewmate who identified himself as Teal Crewmate explained his experience on the ship involving impostors previously, citing harassment and being attacked on the ship. They stated they felt unsafe by Susous Impouster being funded and joining the crew, citing Susous

Impouster's predatory comments regarding Pink Crewmates and suggesting that gay crewmates should keep themselves secret. Another crewmate identified themselves as a member of Keweenaw Pride, a crewmate organization dedicated to protecting and preserving the LGBTQIA+ crewmate population aboard the MTU ship. Blue Crewmate showed concern regarding Susous Impouster's tendencies to show off his sharp teeth while slinging slurs and dog whistles at LGBT crewmates, citing that it was very sus and may harm the other crewmates.

Several other staff members of the ship weighed in during the discussion, mentioning the legality of barring a speaker from speaking at MTU. Dear readers, here is where the issue lies: none of this was about barring Susous Impouster from ever speaking! The issue solely focuses on the FUNDING aspect, as previously mentioned in a petition passed around by crewmates worried about this speaker. Since this $3,500 comes from an emergency fund, that means everything should check out legally, right? That money was never allocated to Red Crewmate in the first place, and Red Crewmate could always hold a bake sale to fulfill the rest of the money.

The story gets even more sus. A crewmate from USC quietly called for an EMERGENCY MEETING of the USC council, stating that the ship staff was pressuring them into changing the election results! Even worse, this was only made public after a cat-eared crewmate mentioned the rumors in the USC discord server. The USC has also confirmed that public comment will NOT BE ALLOWED. Dear readers, it seems we have an imposter among us. What could the administration possibly be trying to hide?

This emergency meeting takes place at 4 pm TODAY, in case any of you crewmates would like to attend. This meeting will be in the MUB Ballroom B1 & B2.
