A Kwikkie

Catmoder

Many of the Wisconsinites on campus will attest to their belief that Kwik Trip is the best gas station (though not as good as Buccees). As a not-born-but-raised Michigander, I have literally never heard of a Kwik Trip until I started attending MTU. For the longest time I was so confused as to what this magical gas station was all about. But today was the day that everything changed.

For some background, I attend CFRES's Fall Camp, which is essentially a required romp in the woods for an entire semester. While you guys study statics and water table design, I get to flip logs over and find salamanders for a grade. No, I am not kidding. I got graded on finding 'manders. I fucking love my major. Anyways, this means I tend to go to some cRaZy and WaCkY places in the UP. We piled into the vans and begun our drive down to Munising to visit a National Forest. On that drive, my fellow Bullians, is when I saw It. We were about over an hour out from L'Anse when we made The Encounter. It was first greeted by the 5 Wisconsinites in our van screaming mixes of "YOoooooooo", "NO FUCKING WAY", and "WE ARE SO BACK". I followed the direction of frantic pointing towards a shining Kwik Trip, practically glowing red and orange against the dull grey sky. After begging our poor tired TA to visit after our lab, she said yes, and thus begins the story of my first time Kwikking. When I first entered, I was greeted by a lovely employee who welcomed me to the store. And I was truly welcomed. Snacks galore. Trinkets, even. Red and blue slushees. Coffee. This place had it all. The bathrooms were lackluster (two stalls for like 30 students lol) but that did not deter me. I made my way through the isles marveling at the various snacks they had to offer. Truly glorious. One of my Wisconsinite classmates mentioned he had "bad vibes" from this Kwik Trip. It looked as if he had seen a ghost. He said this Kwik Trip was merely a less powerful form of the ones in his home state. A copy. A ripoff. I questioned his judgement, I truly did. When all of the Lord's creations come together to sing on the day of judgement, will a Kwik Trip not be part of the choir?

They had a massive wall of warm food, something I practically heard angels singing for as I had been freezing from getting rained on for 3 straight hours. Many of the options were not stocked, but the diversity of options was insane. Tacos. Burgers. Cheese curds. Everything. Now, I usually don't trust gas station food. I'm kind of prissy. But I will admit, I did spend $6 on a double bacon cheeseburger and $4 on bosco sticks. Best money I could have spent that day. That shit was DIVINE. I do not care if I get parasites from how long that food has probably been sitting under heat lamps. The cashier asked if I had a rewards card, and when I mentioned I did not, she said "that's okay!". Wholesome. Satisfied with my haul, I wolfed it down as if it were my last meal. I worshiped that cheese stick like a bard to his muse after years of travel and separation. I did not know I had a Kwik Trip shaped hole in my heart, and yet, it was filled. I've been converted. I've been told that there are even BETTER locations outside of our state. I've been considering making a pilgrimage to one of these locations as a little treat. You know that one Ted Nivision video where he visits every one of Jimmy Buffet(may he rest in peace)'s Margaritaville restaurants? Yeah. I think I have a great idea for charity
