IT'S BEEN

2

DAYS SINCE VEGAS NIGHT

-Like The Onion, but shittier!

Confirmed: MTU is New Vegas

A Mediocre Gambler

It's quite obvious if you think about it — here, let's break it down:

As demonstrated in the image below, Alex is clearly Mr. House, the math-focused ringleader of McNair who will bankrupt you in Blackjack without hesitation. The house always wins, and he's here to enforce it.

“The truth is, the game was rigged from the start” — a line that may resonate with anyone betting on graduating in four years while maintaining a healthy work-life balance with school. This may also apply to the Blackjack tables at Vegas Night, but that's entirely Alex's fault. Let's take this moment to look at that image again.

The food — the on-campus dining experience is uncanny to that of the post-nuclear-war wasteland. What's the meatloaf made out of? Does this beverage machine work? Is any of this fit for human consumption? What kind of metal is that in my food? Nobody knows, and it's all part of the fun! Want a drink that's more or less guaranteed to be safe, good and energy-boosting? That'll be half of your hourly!

Speaking of relevant quotes, “Cancelling the Broomball season almost makes you wish for a nuclear winter” I can't think of a good way to tie this into much, which is sad because I really wanted to use it. Unfortunately, my luck stat is currently around 0; the workload is becoming unbearable. So, go look at that image again — it's the whole reason I even tried to write this article. Good luck, fellow wasteland survivors.
