Student Embarks on Perilous Journey to Find 3000 Level HASS Course

9 Credits Short of a Degree

A third year Mechanical Engineering major and meticulous schedule keeper, Markus Porter has officially set off on his journey to find the final credits to complete his degree in the intended four years.

Originally aiming to find the elusive HASS credits in the early years of his degree, Markus found that the search would not be so easy. Others who attempted the arduous task warned him of the futility — “I ain’t even sure there are any of ‘em so called ‘three-thousand level HASS courses’” the upperclassmen would tell him as they entered the thirtieth years of their degrees, still unable to enroll in the final classes needed to complete them. But Markus felt like he was different, like he would be the one to discover a previously unknown 3000-level HASS credit and overcome the degree requirement that vanquished the hopes and dreams of so many before him.

As registration loomed over the horizon, Markus and his friends began their preparations. Diligently searching Banweb for clues as to where the promised classes may lie, theorizing on which professors they may be able to have an ‘in’ with, and consulting the local sages to possibly hold any of the few available classes, the group of explorers planned carefully.

But as the fated day arrived, disaster struck when, like all the years before, no open 3000-level HASS class was to be found. Markus and his team were shocked —

Humanities, Arts, and Social Sciences (HASS): 12 credits required
Students must take a minimum of 12 credits in HASS following these requirements:
• 6 credits must be upper level (3000-4999) courses
○ UN1015 AND (UN1025 or Modern Language – 3000 level or higher) are prerequisites to all upper level non-language HASS courses
○ Prerequisites for upper level language courses are appropriate placement score OR required lower level language course
• 3 credits are required from each of the following lists:
○ Communication and Composition
○ Humanities and Fine Arts (HUFA)
○ Social and Behavioral Sciences (ECP/PSY/ISS)
• No more than 3 credits from the Restricted HASS list may be counted toward the HASS requirement
• Some courses are on more than one HASS list and a Core list, or on the HASS list and a STEM list, but each course can satisfy only one requirement
	Communication and Composition
	• Minimum of 3 credits required

devastated! — by the loss. One by one, the expedition team fell apart, resigning to put off the credits to another semester, whenever that semester may come.

Markus, still, could not easily be swayed.

“There must be a way!” He announced to his disbanded team “We can still find a 3000-level HASS class! I know there’s one out there! There has to be, damn you! I will find it, be it alone or together! Now, who is with me?”

Alas, broken in spirit, none of his comrades stepped forward.

Markus did not blame them. He knew the journey was basically a death wish, a journey that so many had started but never ended. Yet, it was a journey that must be taken. After all, how else would he graduate in four years?

And so, Markus set off on his odyssey. May this article serve in his memory — the memory of one brave man who sought to complete what no soul has done before.

The Steaming Pile
