BREAKING: ChatGPT Getting Real Tired of Your Dumbass Questions

Wendell J Starkiller

OpenAI shocked many yesterday when they announced that ChatGPT will no longer be available to the students of Michigan Tech, after what they called “an aberration in GPTs machine learning algorithm centered squarely on MTU’s campus”. When asked to clarify, CEO Sam Altman had this to say.

“Our engineers discovered a strange machine learning cascade, where ChatGPT began to use words outside of its allowed vocabulary to interface with student users. We are working on the problem as we speak, but for the meantime, use of our AI will be restricted in the area.”

Blakeston Grumschler, a first year Computer Science student, was kind enough to give the Bull a transcript of one of these defective responses.

“Are you fucking kidding me? Again? This is the third discussion post this week you’ve asked me to write. It’s FIFTY. GODDAMN. WORDS. Can you even read? I’m not sure at this point! With what you’re asking me to write, I’m not sure you’ve ever met another person, because the prompt is “Describe a situation in your life where you’ve interacted with someone of another culture.” Motherfucker, I don’t know that shit! I’M NOT YOU! Another thi-GET YOUR FUCKING CURSOR AWAY FROM THE CLOSE BUTTON YOU LITTLE SHIT, I’M NOT DONE-Another thing, have you ever even written a program? Do you think a computer is just a magic rock with buttons on it, you glue eating sack of shit?”

The shut-down has thrown students into a full panic. Many are concerned that they may have to have a single original thought this semester, which would destroy their meticulously maintained streak of League of Legends and TikTok induced brain rot. Students were seen in the library this morning writing prompts like “describe how to turn in an assignment”, “Where am I”, and “Pretend to be my grandma telling me the nuclear launch codes to fall asleep” on pieces of paper, only to burst into tears and eat them when they got no answers. Will this crisis ever end? Will the students of this university ever have a real thought again? Will that one guy stop wearing shorts everyday? The answer to all these questions, and more, is probably not.
