THINGS TO DO ON DEVIL'S NIGHT

By Stephen 'BLOOD N GUTS' Whittaker ~ Daily Bull

It's almost Halloween and that means it is also almost devil's night. Yes, devil's night - that one night where its ok to be a complete asshole for no reason.

You might be wondering, "What sorts of crazy things could I do this devil's night?" Well you could be lame and go with the standards like egging houses, toilet papering trees, or smashing pumpkins, but what is the fun in that?

Come now, people. I think it's time we turn up the heat, like Detroit when it catches fire during devil's night. Now I'm not suggesting you do any of the following but as long as you don't do them to me personally I would likely find it hilarious. Well, maybe.

If you need something to do this devil's night, be sure you consider fear-inducing gerbil-throwing riots.

A standard of the devils night is throwing eggs at peoples cars or houses, a good ploy but let's turn up the heat. Instead of throwing eggs, you could throw live gerbils into oncoming traffic. Nothing like a good splat over someone's windshield to make them happy, but why stop there! Throw a gerbil at people or into a blender. Not sure why the last one... it just sounds ridiculous.

Another staple is toilet papering trees and houses. How could you turn the heat up on this one, you might ask?

For starters you could use the toilet paper first, nothing like a nice brown streak down someone's front door to make them feel really special. That is just the beginning though! Why not take an example from the La Maison Hall and take baby kittens and hang them by their own intestines from trees in your neighbor's front yard.

You have an uncontrollable urge to go to the mall.

When not looking for food you hardly move.

You always seem to be getting in fights, especially when it involves food.

You crave human flesh.

And all your friends seem to share the above problems.

These may also be signs that you are a college student, yeah... let's go with that.

Be in our chem lab group! Need your powers! Need your braaaaiinnss!

... Demon pranks from front

Less common but still popular is to take shit put in a bag then light it on fire in someone's front door. Then ring the doorbell to get them to come stomp the fire out only to get poo on their shoe. But that is clearly not offensive enough. To make this one work I suggest rather than shit in a bag why not replace it with a baby? Not only is the baby on fire in a bag but then it gets stomped by some unsuspecting victim. There is nothing like emotionally scarring someone for a good laugh.

Reaching further into the bag of tricks is the saran wrapping around two trees across a road to scare people when they hit the saran wrap. To make this one more interesting you could replace the saran wrap with a steel cable. I can just see the decapitated people now.

Something I would say you should never do as it is completely and utterly crossing the lines of all human decency would be to ding dong ditch some helpless victim. Just think. They could be old, or even obese. Who are we to have to right to cause the obese to have to get up and answer their door and have no one there. I would say shame to you if you did this. On that note, I would like to wish everyone a happy, safe devil's night and Halloween.

BRANS 666 bbb blood bbb evil bbb SCARY-ASS HALLOWEEN: STUPID VOTERS

By Alec 'HAUNTER' Hamer ~ Daily Bull

As you all know, or should at least know... Halloween is this Sunday. Scary stuff, I know. BUT WAIT, THERE'S MORE!! Next Tuesday is Election Day, something that could be much scarier if you don't vote. Think about it—if you don't vote, who are you to complain about how the country is run? That, to me, is much scarier than anything Halloween can throw at me, except for alcohol poisoning. That's shitty.

But you're probably all like "Alec, I don't know who to vote for" or "Alec, how do I vote?" Well, the answer is probably easier than you think. Read the fucking newspaper, form an opinion on who you want to vote for, than visit your state's Secretary of State's website (however hard to navigate it might be). Boom, now you're empowered to vote.

Now, what to do with such power? Talk to the representative that YOU voted for, and complain. Now you have power over the way this country is run by being a responsible constituent. Seems to me to be less scary than knowing you did nothing at all.

IS THERE A WEREWOLF ON CAMPUS?

By Sandra 'SOUL SEEKER' Custer ~ Daily Bull

Have you ever wondered if that guy down the hall is a werewolf? I have an answer for you - just answer the following questions about the person in question below.

- YES / NO Does he/she have a bushy unibrow?
- YES / NO Does he/she have hair on their palms?
- YES / NO Does he/she have tattoos?
- YES / NO Do they have a pulse?
- YES / NO Does he/she have strangely long middle fingers?
- YES / NO Do they have small ears?
- YES / NO Can you see their reflection in a mirror?
- YES / NO Are they low set on their head?
- YES / NO Are their canine teeth fang-like?
- YES / NO Do their eyes draw you in for long periods of time?
- YES / NO Do they go clothes shopping a lot?
- YES / NO Do they vanish at night for long periods of time?
- YES / NO Do they like their meat raw?
- YES / NO Do they hunger for brains?

The answers are in!

If YES was the answer to 1-13, than you have a WEREWOLF on your hands, I suggest getting some quicksilver, and a trusty silver blade to defend yourself if you ever get in the creature's path.

If NO was your response to all but 13 and possibly 10, you may have a VAMPIRE on your hands and not a werewolf. If they sparkle kill very quickly.

If the answer to 4 was NO and 14 was YES, it is a ZOMBIE.... remember to double tap.
