

DAILY BULL

The Daily Bull is probably not suitable for those under age 18 and probably should not be taken seriously... like breaking the law!

Monday, October 10, 2011

It is not worth an intelligent man's time to be in the majority. By definition, there are already enough people to do that.
G. H. Hardy

Invasion of the Parents

by Jeanine Chmielewski
~ Daily Bull ~

Well folks, it is finally over. Homecoming weekend. And guess what. It was ALSO parent weekend. Yay. sarcasm Great. Just when we finally got used to the freedom of NOT having them around, they show up. They ruin everything. Parents with the "How have you been? When did you shower last? And what are your grades?" Don't they know we want to be FREE of them? I mean come on. It is college, right? The time to party, let loose, and have way too much fun.

Ok, I mean look, I know they are good for some things, like taking you out to dinner so you can escape dorm food for at least one meal. And yeah, they buy you stuff that you need from the bookstore and Wal-Mart. But hey, do they always have to come up here all on the SAME weekend? There is no parking for anyone now and the popu-
... see Para-natural on back

The 99% Solution

by Nathan Invincible

I'm out in Albany, so I'm pretty close to where all the Wall Street protests have been going on. For all you Yoopers who have no idea what's going on, a whole bunch of "poor" people (99%) are getting angry at a whole bunch of "rich" people (1%). The "poor" people go sit out in Wall Street and cause a stink because they want JUSTICE for having to help bail out banks. Literally, because there aren't any public showers and hipsters already smell gross half the time anyway.

A lot of them are all in their tizzy cause they don't have jobs, got cheated out of their homes, and banks are just downright evil nowadays being all "too big to fail." Laudable reasons I'd say. Investment bankers making hundreds of millions of dollars really don't need that much money. You can only buy so many Ferraris, mostly because they produce them in limited numbers.

I'm not here to say who's right or wrong, because someday I'm aiming to be one of the 1% and don't want ya'll to get mad at me when I do. Admit it, who doesn't want to have a pool full of gold coins? What I'm proposing is a simple solution to get all those "poor" people back on their feet, working, and well on their way to being multi-billion or trillionaires: bank robbery.

... see Highway Robbery! on back

What's today? 101011 = 43
This joke would have been better a year ago...

Just another manic Memeday

SLIGHTLY CHILLY OUTSIDE

PUFFY WINTER COAT
AND UGG BOOTS

STUDIO PIZZA

PIZZAS PIZZA LOVERS LOVE!
Daily Specials at www.thestudiopizza.com
10% Discount for All Students
Downtown Hancock, across from Finlandia

Don't Settle For Crappy Pizza!
Get A Large Studio Pepperoni
Pizza For As Little As $8 !!

www.thestudiopizza.com
482-5100

... Highway Robbery! from front

Think about it: you have tons of angry, disenfranchised young people out parading around with nothing to lose, no job in sight, and banks making gazillions of dollars every year. On top of that, guns are selling like hotcakes all over the country, and I'm not talking little 9 mms. If Mexican banditos can get their hands on assault rifles, you can sure as hell bet that we can get them just as easily.

All this adds up to one logical option, which is that all those kids sleeping on the ground down in NYC need to band together and start taking the money the only way open to them. There are tens of thousands of banks across America just waiting to be pilfered, and even more ATMs ripe for being ripped out of walls. It's only a matter of time before America goes back into that sort of mess.

The only problem with this, is that most kids of the 99% won't be able to afford it! (or put it together for that matter)

Since everything is better with a historical context, check this out: during the Depression when millions were also out of work, many turned to bank robbing to sustain themselves. Did the banks ever dry up? Nope. Did the bank robbers live wealthy, prosperous lives? Yep. Did most of them wind up dead, electrocuted, or thrown in a jail cell? Who cares! The point is, bank robbing worked then, so it ought to work now.

On its face, bank robbery sounds like a terrible way to make a living. Security guards with real jobs probably will die, and people hate being terrorized by having their FDIC insured cash stolen. But you gotta look at this from a long term perspective: do we remember the names of those dead security guards, or do we remember the likes of John Dillinger, Bonnie & Clyde, Ma Baker, or Ned Kelly? Do the right thing, 99%. Build yourselves into real legends.

DAILY BULL

EDITOR IN CHIEF
COMP EDITOR
MONOPOLY GUY
BREAD WINNER
SCRIBE
WEBMASTER
ADVISOR

Liz 'Riz' Fujita
Jon 'Big O' Mahan
Alec Hamer
Steve Whittaker
Benjamin Loucks
Kyle Roe
David Tralala Olson

Writers of Awesome: Olivia Zajac, Simon Mused, Cameron Long, Nathan 'Invincible' Miller, Alex Dinsmoor, Sam Schall, Kayla Herrera, Jeanine Chmielewski, Ian Smith, Veronica Tabor, Kay McMahon, Ryan Grainger, John Pastore, Mike Freisen, Bill Melcher, and one month.

©2011 by the Daily Bull, a non-profit organization. All rights reserved. Articles may be freely distributed electronically or on late night talk shows provided credit is given, and that this notice is included. The Daily Bull reserves the right to refuse any advertisements or guest articles without reason. All opinionated letters sent to the editor (on paper or to bull@mtu.edu) will be treated as material to be published unless expressly stated otherwise by the sender. Original works printed in the Daily Bull remain the property of the creator, however the Daily Bull reserves the right to reprint any submissions in future issues unless specifically asked not to do so by the creator. If you keep reading this small text, you will be forced to swallow live sea cucumbers. SLIMY.

The Daily Bull would like to thank the Daily Bull for buying our own damn printer that this publication is printed on. We would also like to thank the Student Activity Fee for helping to pay for our paper and toner costs. And our vuvuzelas.

Advertising inquiries, questions & comments should be directed to bull@mtu.edu

... Para-natural from front

But, I guess they have the right to cause all of these inconveniences. I mean they DID raise us and everything. They fed and clothed us for the first 18 years of our lives. They drove us around to all of the activities we did in high school. They put up with our crazy mood swings, the awkward phase, the emo phase, the I hate you phase, etc. Why? Because they love us (and they're insane). And let's face it, though we are clearly NOT going to tell them, we do miss them. We are all excited to see them again, maybe even go as far as to give them a hug, vent to them about how you either hate your classmates or the fact that you can't understand your math teachers.

So yes, they came up here and restricted our freedom for all of a weekend, but let's face it, you want the excuse to not hang out with the annoying people from chemistry class. You want the excuse to vent to your parents like the good old days. So while you're at it, remember to thank your parents for everything you know they did for you, because there are just as many things they did for you that you don't know about.

From a Guy's Perspective

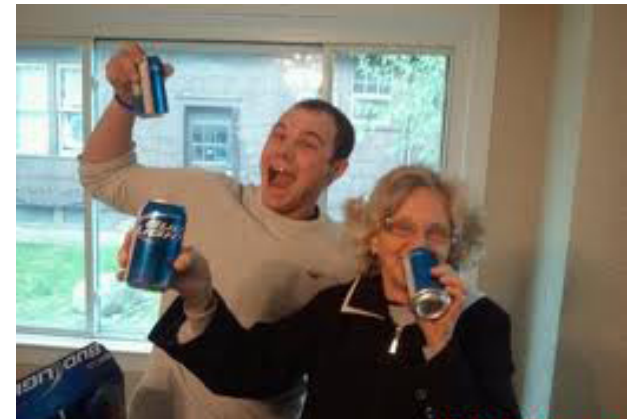

A Rebuttal to Anonymous Female Sender-Inner

So, readers of the Daily Bull, riddle me this: how is it that at a school with a ratio of some 3 guys to each gal, there are any girls without dates? I write this as a helpful hint to all those single girls out there. Grow the metaphoric pair of balls and ask the guy. I'm so tired of the social convention that only guys can initiate the guy-girl contact/asking out. You can talk to us, too, we won't bite either (til we get to know each other). I'm not saying that you should be awkwardly forward, but if you notice a guy looking at you from a distance, there's a good chance he's interested and simply shy. You can talk to him just as easily. I know, the paired XY chromosomes and the fabulous- well, you know* ;) that accompanies them can be nerve-wracking, but, for crying out loud, the worst that can happen is that he doesn't want to talk to you. In that case, you're no worse off than you were to begin.

At this time (that is, if you've read this far), you might be thinking, "Wow, this guy just doesn't get it. He's obviously never had to deal with this." You'd be correct, but that doesn't mean I'm incorrect. If you think introverts are cute, you need to understand that they will rarely just start talking to you. See, that's what extroverts do. If you want your introverts to act extroverted, you're shit out of luck. If you want an entire personality type to change instead of altering your own behavior, it means you're lazy, don't want to make an effort, and are probably just looking to hook up, and not have a proper relationship.

*8===D

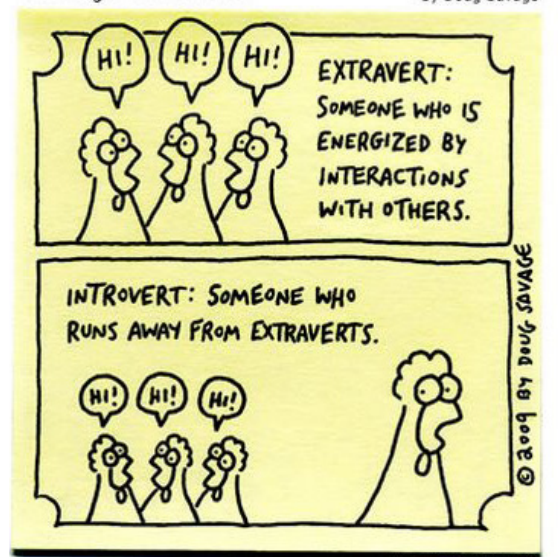

Editor's Note: If you (the girl) don't ask, they may decide to look off campus. So shape up! Get'r'dun!

Some (grand)parents may actually endorse their children's party habits. Party hard you lucky assholes. Just don't let Gramgram get too crazy.

Savage Chickens

by Doug Savage

www.savagechickens.com