Canada Develops Robot which Threatens to take American Jobs

by Kyle Roe ~ Daily Bull

"Those robots are going to take our jobs!" cried an angry mob outside the Senate last weekend. The protest has hit national news as millions of angry farmers, factory workers, house maids and custodial staff, truckers, office workers, balloon string tiers, Lord of the Rings staff makers and iodized salt shakers, critters who jump and hipsters who hate funk, green printer painters and prison guard shankers, snow cow herders and undead scourgers... all marched to Congress demanding a ban on Canadian made robots.

From performing household chores, to entertaining and educating our children, to looking after the elderly, Canadian roboticists say we will soon ... see Asimov on back

Nice Nympho

By Olivia Zajac ~ Daily Bull

It seems these days that every girl gets called a "whore" or "slut" at least once a year, and more if you wear anything low cut and enjoy hooking up with random guys. Not that there's anything inherently wrong with that, I don't judge. But girls these days get called a whore or slut or skank for such small indecencies compared to what happened in the olden days. I was talking to some of my students today (I know, they trust me with younger students *cackle*) and we came upon the one key item she remembered from her lecture that morning. Theodora was a whore.

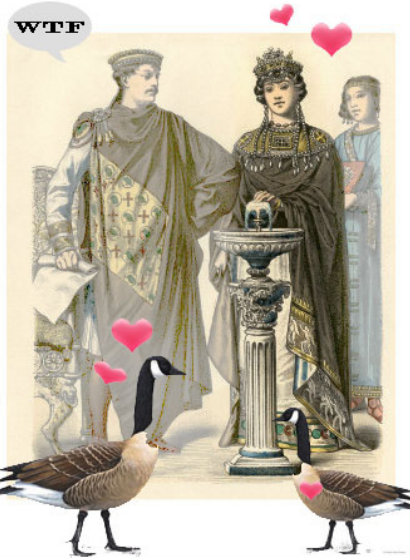

And by today's standards, she would not even rank, the way everyone throw the term whore around all willy-nilly. No. This lady was rumored to have crazy orgies with her husband, Justinian, involving not only a number of other people, but other species. Do you know any girl who has had sexual interactions with other creatures, on purpose, that she also remembers? If you do, get new friends. Unless she's Theodora, because girl got it on with some geese.

You read right. Geese. Although, after more thought, that might not be completely true. After a lengthy discussion it was deemed that she probably did not do the nasty with a goose, or multiple geese, due to the fact that it was not a mammal, and that's just gross.

The one thing this whore did that many today probably do not do is nice things. Theodora doled out money for dowries and helped ... see Feathered Cocks on back be welcoming their creations into our homes and workplaces. Canada is promising that these revolutionary robots, named 'Cybermen,' will "storm into our homes and workforce and help accelerate the human race to supremacy." Even though they are only in the early stages of development, these Cybermen showing great potential to become the new working force of the nation, and the world. "The current Cybermen are not human-like. They are very emotionless and lack much intelligent," says celebrated Canadian roboticist Prof Phillip Wallace, director of the Intelligent Cybermen Laboratory at Canada University, Canada. He believes that very soon the Cybermen will be ready to ship across the globe, and once in the mainstream they will start looking less like machines, and more like us.

Even with all the promising evidence, most middle-class Americans have shown great taste in the Canadian Cybermen. "The employment rate in America has been at a steady 100%," claimed McDonald's livestock trucker Esteban Alabama, "if all those damned Cybermen come across the border I guarantee hard working Americans like myself will lose our jobs!"

Protesters from all across the nation seemed to agree with the belief that "Cybermen will take our jobs!" however both the Canadian and American government have not shared that feeling. Even President Obama himself made note of plans to replace his writing staff with Cybermen. The Obama Administrations support of the Canadian Cybermen has given the Republican Party a strong holding in the up and coming race. Current polls show that over 79% of middle class Democrats have switched their affiliation in hopes of preventing the "Cybermen invasion," however many feel that simple politics will not be enough.

The GOP coalition of Tea Partiers has started a new poster campaign showing a Cybermen killing a middle class worker's dog. "They killed my dog! And they took my job!" cries the hard working family man in the posters.

At the current rate it is believed that the American protesters and their many sympathizers across the world, including a British "Doctor", might accomplish their goal of illegalizing Canadian Cybermen in the work force by December 2012.

citizens after natural disasters. And through all of her escapades, she remained devoted to Justinian. I don't know many extreme-canoodling philanthropists, but if I did, I would have them run the empire too! It only makes sense. Logic is key to this story.

So the point I'm trying to make is that the term whore is being used overwhelmingly nowadays, and not living up to the grand masters who embraced the word. So unless you're a nice nympho (credit to my student for that lovely phrase) who enjoys getting it on frequently with birds, you aren't a whore.

P.S. Have fun not looking at the Thanksgiving turkey the same way. It may not be a goose, but you will remember Theodora. Who woulda guessed that world cultures would teach anything useful!

News In Briefs: Obama Blocks President of Mongolia

By Jon 'Big-O' Mahan ~ Daily Bull

In a sudden turn of events, the President of the United States has blocked a leader from another nation on Facebook.

"This really is quite an interesting paramount. It's never been done before," say multiple international policy experts. The experts have been debating on what this means for international relations.

"Well, this could lead to a breakdown in communication between the two, what with the lack of constant status updates - but, then again, this is Mongolia. Who are they again?" said one expert, obviously not alarmed by the possible outrage from blocking the president of the nation that once was the largest nation in existence.

"I think Mr. Obama will have some serious problems down the road, mostly involving horsemen, sieges, bows, and an angry assault from barbarians," said another expert, who has studied ancient Mongolian tactics.

"I will have it known, that I unintentionally blocked the president of Mongolia. I swear, I meant to add him, but I mislicked!" the president said. There is no word as to whether or not he has rectified the situation. He instead insisted on blaming the Tea Party, Republicans, earthquakes, tsunamis, and Japan.

The president of Mongolia was asked of his opinion on the matter. "Ehh... He'll be out in a year anyway. Who cares?"

Like President Bush, Obama seems to like putting his hands into international affairs.
